The

1991 Centurion

Dedication

South Windsor Teacher of the year

Mr. O'Loughlin is an amazing teacher who is always ready and willing to help students whenever they may need it. His ability to work with students; to organize, and his willingness to learn new material and try new ideas has made him an outstanding math teacher. Because of all that Mr. O'Loughlin has given to us, we, the Class of 1991, are proud to dedicate to him the 1991 Centurion.

Mr. O'Loughlin originally majored in Political Science at Providence College; it wasn't until his math professor convinced him he had an ability to make complex things easy that he decided to consider becoming a math teacher.

Having Mr. "O" as a teacher gives us not only a good education, but a practical start into a real future. Mr. "O" is respected and loved by both the faculty and students here at SWHS. He can always be counted on to give his own personal time after school to a student to help them understand a concept, or to solve a computer problem with one of the teachers. It is for this reason and many more that the Math department looks to him as their mentor.

The students also appreciate Mr. "O" for the very things they could not accept when first entering his classes...his organizational skills. His highly organized style is very evident in the classroom and he tries to foster organizational skills within his students. His classwork calendars (which he grades!) force the students to practice time management in his fast-paced courses.

Mr. O'Loughlin talents were recognized townwide by his selection as 1991 South Windsor Teacher of the Year. We wish to add to his accolades by thanking him for his caring and personal teaching style. He is truly a unique teacher.

Foundations

The base on which we build, both in character and in knowledge

Because of the changes going on at SWHS, the Staff of the 1991 Centurion choose Foundations as a basis for the yearbook.

All around us this year are signs of construction, renovation and new beginnings. At the same time there are the things that remain constant: a caring and dedicated staff that can always be counted on to provide the Foundation for our future.

Whether it be in academics, activities and clubs, or on the athletic fields, what we gain from our years here will be the basis, our Foundation for the future.

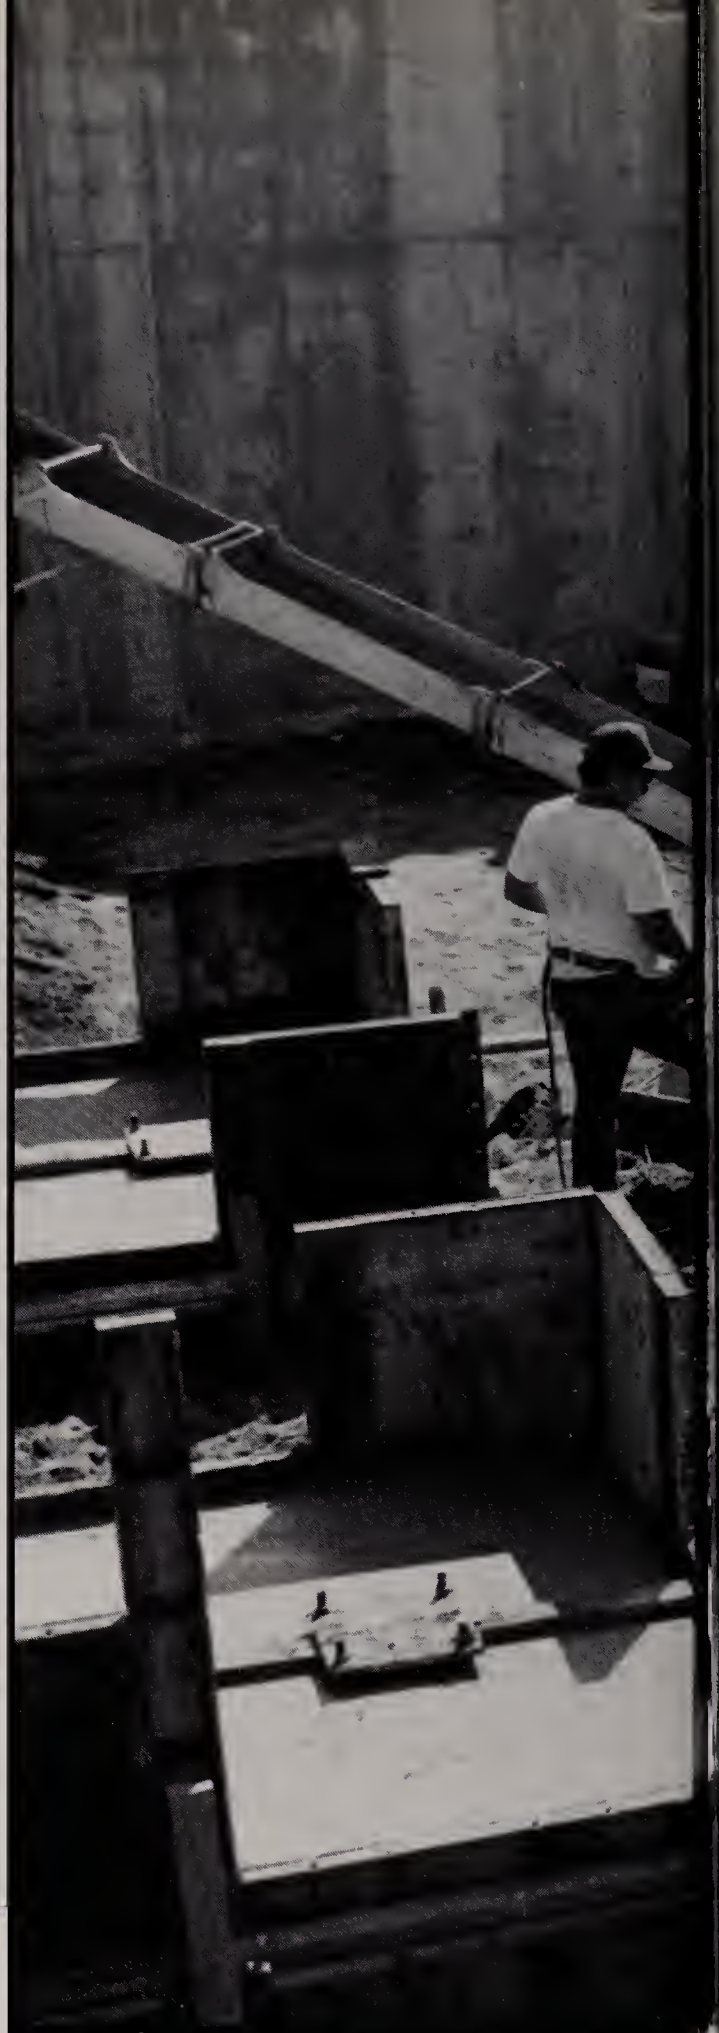

Always in a time of global change and disruption of our daily lives we can count on this foundation to provide a solid base upon which we can build.

Looking out from the Faculty lounge, this is the left side of the foundation for the new and enlarged Media Center.

The construction starts early in the morning. The constant roar of the earth movers and trucks proved to be a disruption that no one really got used to.

....And the walls came a' tumblin down

Above Left: This is what was left of room 90C, (the old computer room), after crews started to make way for the new wing of English and Social Studies classrooms. Over the summer the rubble was cleaned up and work started on the foundation of this part of the new addition to the school.

Left: In what was once the courtyard, footings are put in place for the I-beams that will make up the walls of part of the new Industrial Technology area. This photo shows where the new Video Communications and Graphic Arts classrooms will be built.

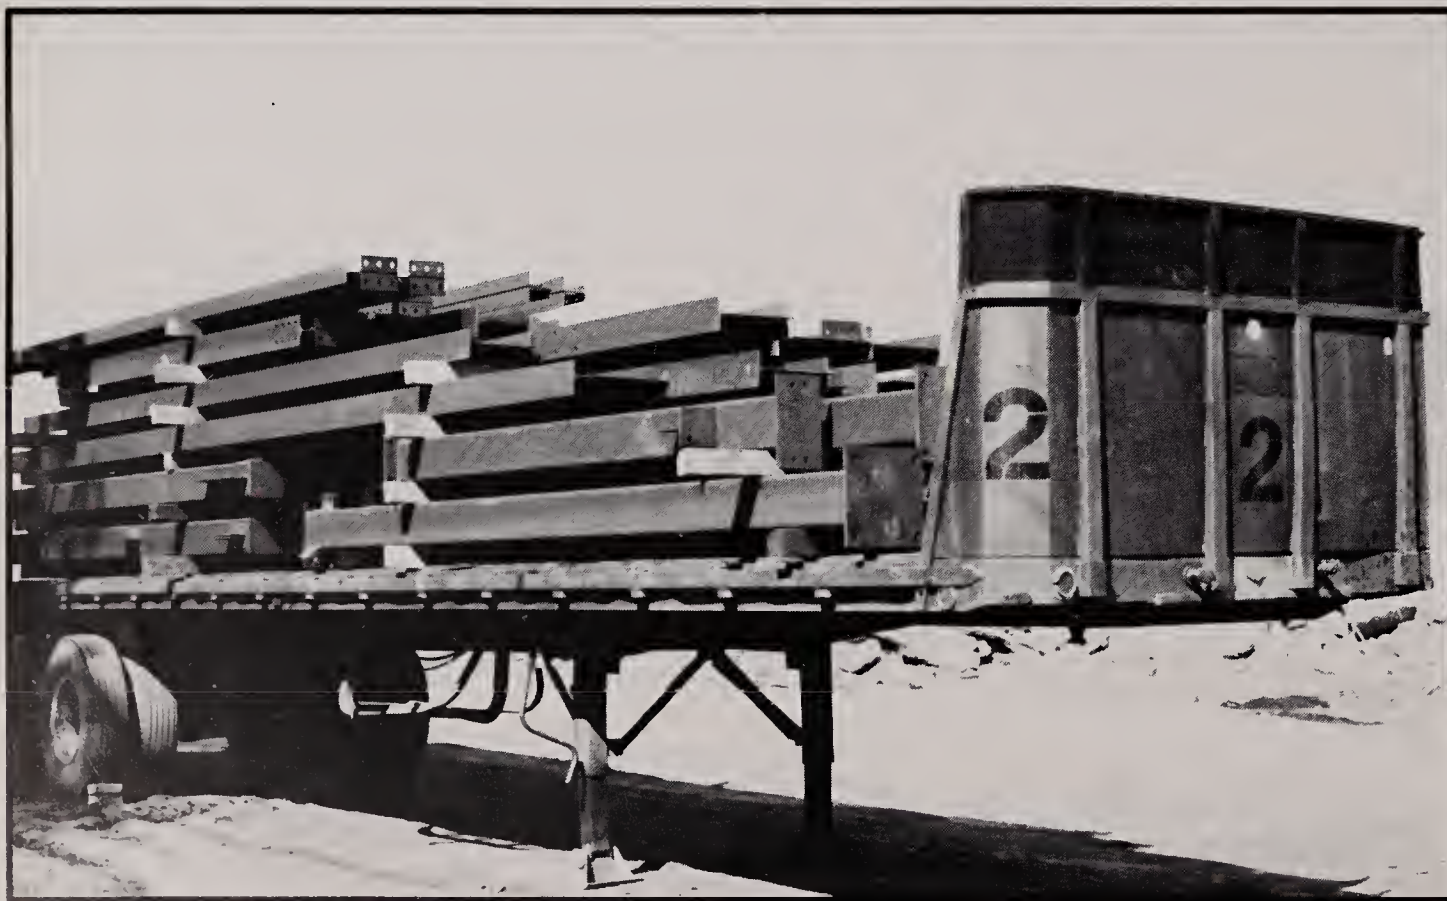

Firm footings on which to build solid walls

Top Left: Workmen pour the footings for the new wing that will be the home to Business, part of Home Economics, and Foreign Language. This view is from outside the doorway that is presently at the end of the Social Studies wing. Work has progressed quickly after the delay in getting all of the necessary plans approved by the state.

Top Right: Because of a difference in ground levels, some of the foundation walls had to be "stepped".

Left: A Media Center event. This was the first steel to go up. Because of its location in what once was the courtyard, this part of the new construction had to be completed first.

A truckload of steel waits to be unloaded. This load was for the new academic wing that will be home to Math and Foreign Language.

This is the outside wall of the foundation that will be the base for the new wing housing the Business department.

Building for the future of the students at SWHS

Above: Steel workers bolt together the beams that are the outside walls and roof of the new Media Center. Watching the steel go up was an education for students and staff alike.

Left: Another view of the workers on top of the Media Center. Many were fascinated by the men walking on the beams, working without a net, twenty and thirty feet above the ground.

Much to the chagrin of the staff who worked during the summer, the making of the new driveway caused lots of dust and inconvenience.

War in the Gulf!!

In looking to the future, let us not forget the past mistakes of war. Many of our graduates are now serving for the U.S. in the Gulf War.

Patriotism is in full swing as we defend the rights of freedom and our country. The red, white and blue flies high and true.

Industrial Technology teacher Mr. Greg Ramsdell's reserve unit was activated to serve in the Persian Gulf over Christmas vacation.

War hits home...

On January 16, 1991, at 4:32 P.M. EST normal everyday events just didn't seem to be important anymore, as the United States-led coalition attacked Saddam Hussein and the Iraqi Army. After many threats and failed negotiations, the January pullout deadline was broken by Iraq and war was inevitable. The United States launched an air attack on Iraq at 7:00 P.M. EST.

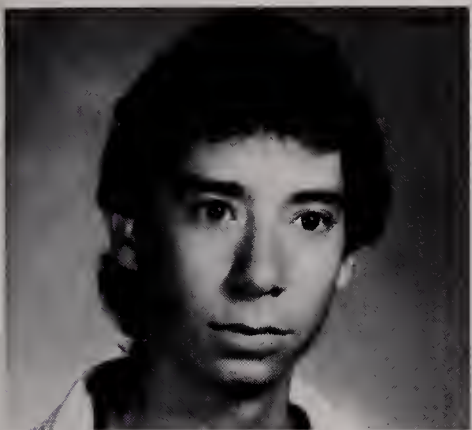

The ground war started on Saturday, February 23, 1991. With this type of an attack, casualties were expected to be high.

At midnight February 28, 1991, the war was officially ended. A cease-fire was granted as much of Iraq's military force was destroyed. Iraq accepted all of the U.N. resolutions. The Allied coalition was able to soundly defeat Iraq with a minimum amount of casualties. Barring any aggression from Hussein and Iraq, the war is officially over and Kuwait has been liberated.

How did the war affect you in your life at SWHS?

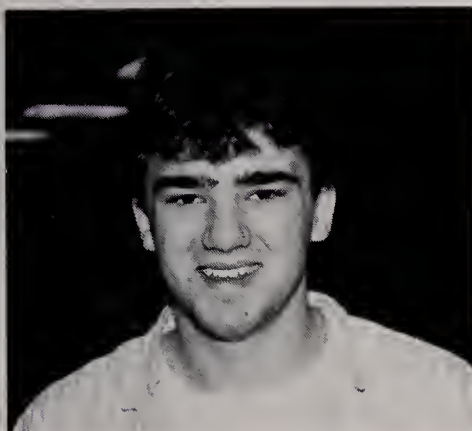

Manny Salinas-Senior

"It is going to start giving people an attitude, whether it be give peace a chance or lets kick some butt. All that I am saying is everyone should try to do the right thing."

"People are realizing war is a serious thing and it can happen in our lifetime. I never thought I'd live through a war. It was something our parents talked about, now it'll be something I'll talk about to my kids."

Roxanne Aquije-Senior

Scott Doolittle-Senior

"It'll probably affect my life a lot because of the draft. Emotions are riding high about the war. People are torn between peace and war and its led to a lot of conflicts."

"It can affect the school because of the protesters. School doesn't seem as important because all everyone's talking about is the war."

Kevin Molloy-Junior

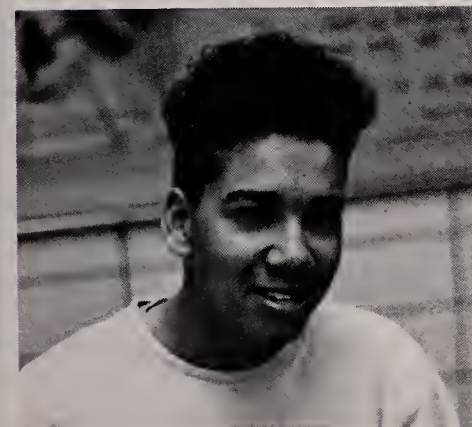

Karlyn Banda-Junior

"It'll hit us hard because of family we have over there and because kids that graduated are there. Feelings are going to be shared by everyone if people we know die. It won't just affect the family, it will affect everyone because of the cause they died for."

"I don't like the fact that it's war, but I think since our troops are over there we have to support them, since we are the United States. It affects us because there's not many jobs and the economy's very bad."

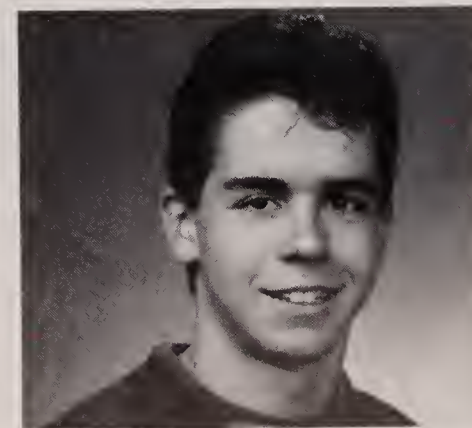

Julie Salimando-Junior

Mike Taylor-Junior

"It won't affect me directly, but a lot of people are going to die."

"It keeps your mind off school work more than anything else."

Matt Hough-Sophomore

Alyssa Strano-Freshman

"I think it's going to harm us more than help us. We're going to lose a lot of people and the worst part is that the people that die are going to be our friends and family."

"I don't like the war. What angers me the most isn't the fact that we are at war, but the patriotism of the moment only because of the war. Patriotism is great, but for the moment? We should have patriotism all of the time, not just during war."

Mr. White-Science teacher

World News...

Freedom rings throughout Europe. Germany is now whole again and speaking of democracy. They have decided to unite after 45 years of separation. Many other European countries are wary of the new unification because of what happened to them back in World War II.

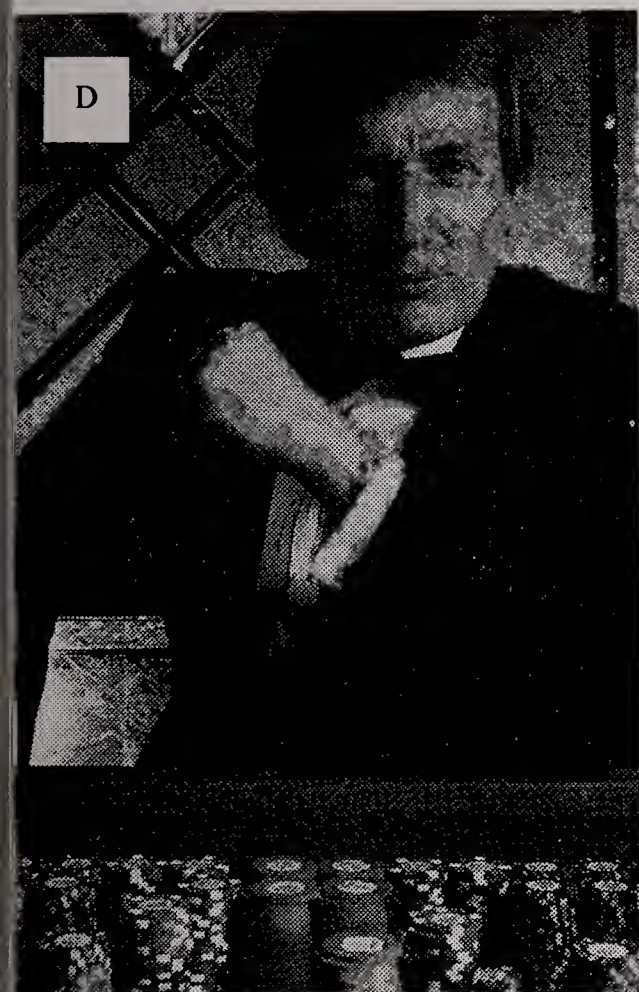

The Soviet Union has gone through many drastic changes in the past year. The Lithuanian people tried to free itself from the Soviet Union. They were stopped by the Soviet Army as many people were killed to prevent them from breaking away from the Soviet Union.

Democracy is becoming the way to go. More and more countries are turning towards it every day. As we proved over two hundred years ago democracy works. No matter how much we change it always will be there to keep us free.

Soviet Army troops watch carefully over freedom seeking Lithuanians, who are trying to break from the Soviet Union.

A year ago the Berlin Wall fell in Germany but that was just the beginning. Germany is united once again, much to the dismay of many European countries who remember the horrible united Germany of years ago.

A. Madonna headlines the news again with her controversial video "Justify My Love".

B. UCONN Basketball captures the heart of Connecticut with 31-6 season in 1990.

C. Milli Vanilli fools the music world by not singing a word on their album.

D. The Trump Frump falls as Donald Trump is hit hard by the recession.

E. Don't have a cow man!", but Cosby did, as the Simpsons moved successfully to Thursdays.

F. "I Love Lucy" will be remembered forever as Lucille Ball died earlier this year.

G. 2 Live Crew sold 2 #@$%@#& million albums after being censored and arrested for their vulgar rap shows.

H. Sammy Davis Jr. sang and danced his way into America's hearts for many years. He will be sadly missed as he passed away this year.

Local Happenings

Early in October, the town of South Windsor began the recycling program to help clean up the air and water and reduce the size of the town landfill. Other area towns either have already started to recycle or haven't at all. Households and businesses in South Windsor received orange buckets in which to put their recyclables.

South Windsor is currently recycling glass, cans, and newspapers. The recyclables are put into the orange bins. Every week a reliable recycling truck goes through the neighborhoods picks up the recyclables.

The schools in South Windsor are doing just as much as the town itself. The school is recycling white paper and lunch trays and soup cups that are made from styrofoam. The original recycling effort was put into effect at the high school by last years' student council in order to reduce the amount of garbage produced by the school.

Currently the town council is trying to get the condominiums to recycle like the town. Plans for the recycling of other materials are in the works and should be imolemented soon.

Recycling comes to town

A chain link fence surrounds the transfer bins at the new the town recycling center. Many tons of glass, metal, and paper have been recycled so far.

Students go live with sports on Cox Cable

Something new and exciting happened to South Windsor sports and it's neighboring towns. It was Cox Cable and live cable casting of high school sports on public access channel 32. The focus was on basketball, girls and boys, with hope of expansion.

At the games it took a close knit crew of twelve people to air the game. Out of those twelve were five seniors from SWHS. They included commentators Jeff Goodin and Steve Smith, cameramen Jeff Broderick and Chris Stout, and statistician Greg Madrid. All of these students were volunteers, many of whom took part in the new video communications class at the high school.

"I'm really proud of these students for their hardwork and dedication", commented Cox Cable's Program Services Manager Dan McNamara. "They took the initiative and followed through with it".

Cameraman Jeff Broderick gets set up for some live action. Two cameras were used at each game to provide total coverage.

Lowell Weicker becomes governor

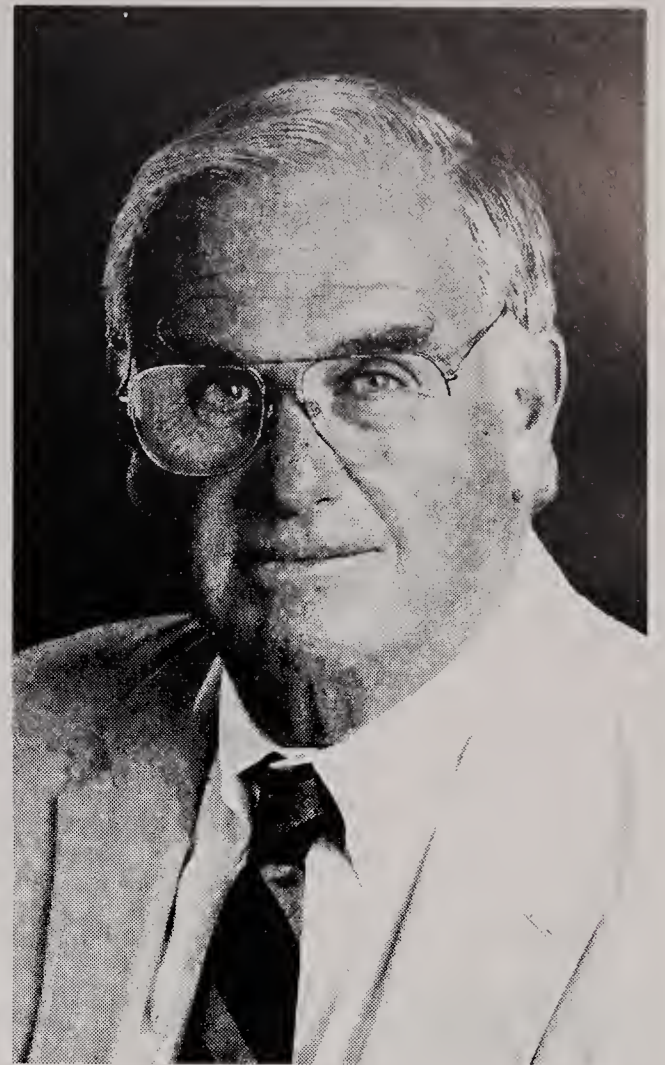

Governor Lowell P. Weicker had his proposed budget ready a week early and presented it on Wednesday, February 13, 1991.

First independent governor of the State

Lowell Weicker ran a very strong campaign, as an independent candidate. The former United States republican senator from the State, Weicker is the first elected independent governor of the state.

He ran on a platform of political reform and defeated both the democrat and republican candidates. He proposed new taxes that would help reduce the state budget deficit. The new governor was Inaugurated early in January on a cold wet day at the Capitol building in Hartford.

Governor Weicker is also talking about budget cuts from the area of schools and other areas. The Governor stated that the children are the first priority, even though the governor claimed that some other programs might be cut.

When Governor Weicker presented his budget, he proposed a six percent income tax that would reduce the states budget deficit,

Sports

Sports always affect our lives. Even in the light of the Gulf War sports still go on. We had the New York Giants win perhaps the best Super Bowl ever played, as Buffalo Bills kicker Scott Norwood missed a last second field goal to give the victory to the Giants 20-19.

Huskymania still rolls on as the Huskies of a year ago, displayed an awesome array of basketball by going 31-6, winning the Big East regular season championship and winning the Big East tournament. They just barely missed a trip to the Final Four on a last second shot in overtime against Duke.

The year of the No-hitter in baseball. Nine different pitchers threw no-hitters in 1990 as Nolan Ryan threw a record sixth no-hitter. The Cincinnati Reds swept the Oakland A's four games to none in the World Series.

Co-champions in college football? The Colorado Buffaloes and the Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets were declared number one in the AP and the UPI polls respectively. The Detroit Pistons won the NBA Championship again. They beat the Portland Trailblazers, who have former UCONN standout Cliff Robinson, with their incredibly tough defense.

Huskymania is here to stay as the UCONN Huskies captured the hearts of everyone in Connecticut by having a 31-6 season. They were a shot away from a trip to the Final Four, but who could forget "THE SHOT" by Tate George from Scott Burrell to defeat Clemson with 1 second left on the clock.

South Windsor Sports

South Windsor sports have really excelled this year. All of our fall sports teams made the state tournaments. Boys soccer surprisingly won their first states game, as they struggled to make the tournament. Senior Geoff Willard and junior Laura Salcius made All-State in Cross Country. Senior Brad Symonds became the first South Windsor football player to make All-State in football. Senior Beth Bishop also made All-State in girls soccer. After many disappointing seasons in basketball our boys and girls teams have had exceptional seasons. Indoor Track and Hockey also had their usual good seasons. The Class of 1991 will be remembered for many things and our good sports teams is just one of them.

Perhaps one of the biggest surprises in 1990-91 was boys basketball. They recorded their best winning season in over ten years and made it.

Senior Co-presidents Dave Jakad and Michelle Greco sharing a moment at the bonfire.

Seniors at last! We are the class of '91. We have enjoyed four years of our short lives here at S.W.H.S. Many of us never thought that we would make it; it seemed so endless at times. Now the real world is calling. We are going off to college and work; the years seem to have flown. The completion of school is just a new beginning for us.

Many friendships that we have started will carry on for the rest of our lives. We cannot forget the many great sports teams that we have had. We have learned many things that will carry us through life's rough times. We have gained valuable skills, both academic and practical, that will help us in whatever career we choose to enter. We are and always will be remembered as the class of '91.

Hey Guys! Show us those muscles. Two of SWHS's more manly guys flex for the photographer.

Body building is popular with most of the guys in our school, not just these seniors. Gold's and World's gym are two of the most popular places for these muscular men to go to pump some iron. With society's emphasis on health, many teenagers and adults feel the money spent on membership fees is worth it.

Jeff and Sean like to go to the gym for two main reasons, "To stay physically fit and to attract the ladies," Sean also adds, "If ladies liked fat men, then I'd get fat."

Sean and Jeff can be found at the gym almost everyday. Jeff works out mainly for the football and hockey seasons. Sean lifts weights because it's fun and like he said before, "For the ladies."

Foreign Exchange

Cecilie Sudlund Oslo, Norway

Cecilie Sudlund is our foreign exchange student from Oslo, Norway.

"It's fun here," she said, but does find that there are more rules and less freedom for students than in Norwegian schools. Because her American classes are taught in her second language, she does find her academic studies challenging.

Cecilie initially expected American teenagers to be much more selfish and egotistical than those in Norway; but once here she realized that American and Norwegian teens have a great deal in common.

Cecilie has made many new friends, but she stills misses her family, relatives, and classmates back home. Cecilie has fit into the life at SWHS with ease; she has enriched our lives with her cultural diversity.

She is scheduled to stay until June and hopes to see more of America before heading back to Norway.

Painted faces and chants of '92 filled the gym at the fall Pep Rally as the junior class attempted to prove their class spirit.

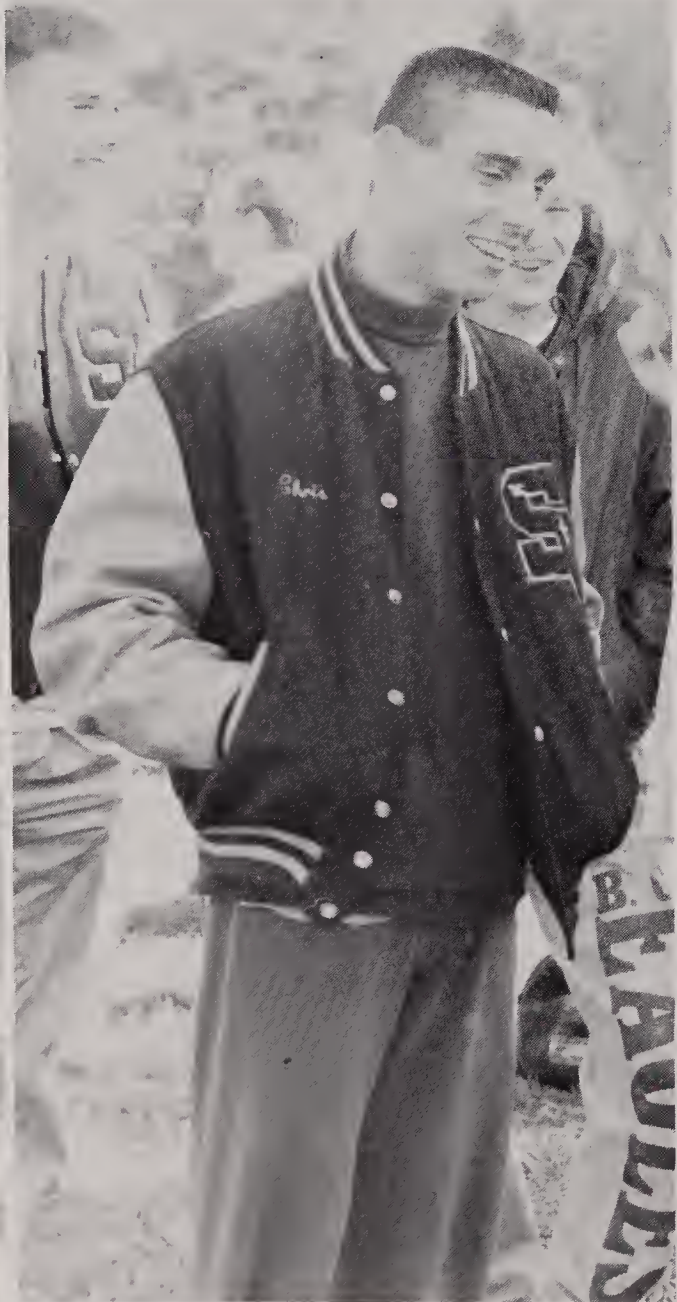

As the Class of '91 exits, the Class of '92 anxiously awaits their turn in the spotlight. They won't be considered underclassmen anymore, but will be "big" seniors.

Junior year is a memorable year. It means going somewhere during activity periods, and for some, driving to school. Stress builds up as the Junior Prom gets closer, and the SAT's are taken for the first time. SAT's mean that it's about that time to start thinking about the c-word(college), and to start thinking about future plans.

The junior class will, hopefully, come together their senior year as one united class. Good Luck Class of '92!

JUNIOR

Chris Rose seems to find something very amusing. What could it be? Inquiring minds want to know!

Is it a bird? Is it a plane? Whatever it is, it has definitely captured the attention of these guys. L to R: Mark Cherwinski, George Carabase, Steve Rosfjord, J.J. Doucette.

Corey

Corey Hale spares a moment to turn and smile for the camera. He seems thrilled to be at South Windsor's annual bonfire.

Sophomores

Members of the sophomore class show their spirit while attending this year's fall pep rally. However the seniors seemed to dominate this pep rally.

Remember when...

The Hands of Time

As the hands of the clock move progress with time,
We remember back when
We stepped through the doors to our future
And the changes that have happened since then.
We've shared so much with one another,
And we recall, the memories of the past
All the tears and laughter between us
And memories that will always last.
When we take a deep look at each other
And see the people that define the word friend
We appreciate the time together
And the hopes and dreams that never end.
As we leave the high school at last
And go our separate ways,
Remember the hands of time
And the best of our Bobcat days.

School Spirit

When it comes to spirit the SWHS students can't be out done. This spirit was evident during the pep rally, bonfire and Homecoming Dance.

Although out numbered, the Juniors thought that they were the class to beat at the pep rally, but the Seniors with an outrageous entrance showed them who was boss.

"Without a doubt," said Senior Missy Magnano, "the Seniors dominated the pep rally!"

Junior Brian Murray replied, "They may be bigger than us, but the class of '92 won't back down."

Although the Freshmen and Sophomores were in attendance, the upperclassmen out yelled, out spirited and out did the underclassmen.

The pep rally has turned out to be a great class verses class event and a place to show Bobcat spirit.

'91, '91, '91 was the cry of the Seniors who demonstrated their spirit by dominating the pep rally.

Senior Gabe Hathorn using bullhorn and megaphone, excites the crowd. The bonfire was almost canceled due to high winds.

The field hockey team seniors show off during the pep rally by building a pyramid to demonstrate their true spirit.

Abe Kyc and Angela McGrath are silhouetted by the "flames of spirit" at the bonfire.

Sophomores Todd Arkava, Doug Cohen and Craig Snyder lounge out at the Homecoming Dance. Grass skirts and leis were the costume of the night.

Homecoming '91

Events...

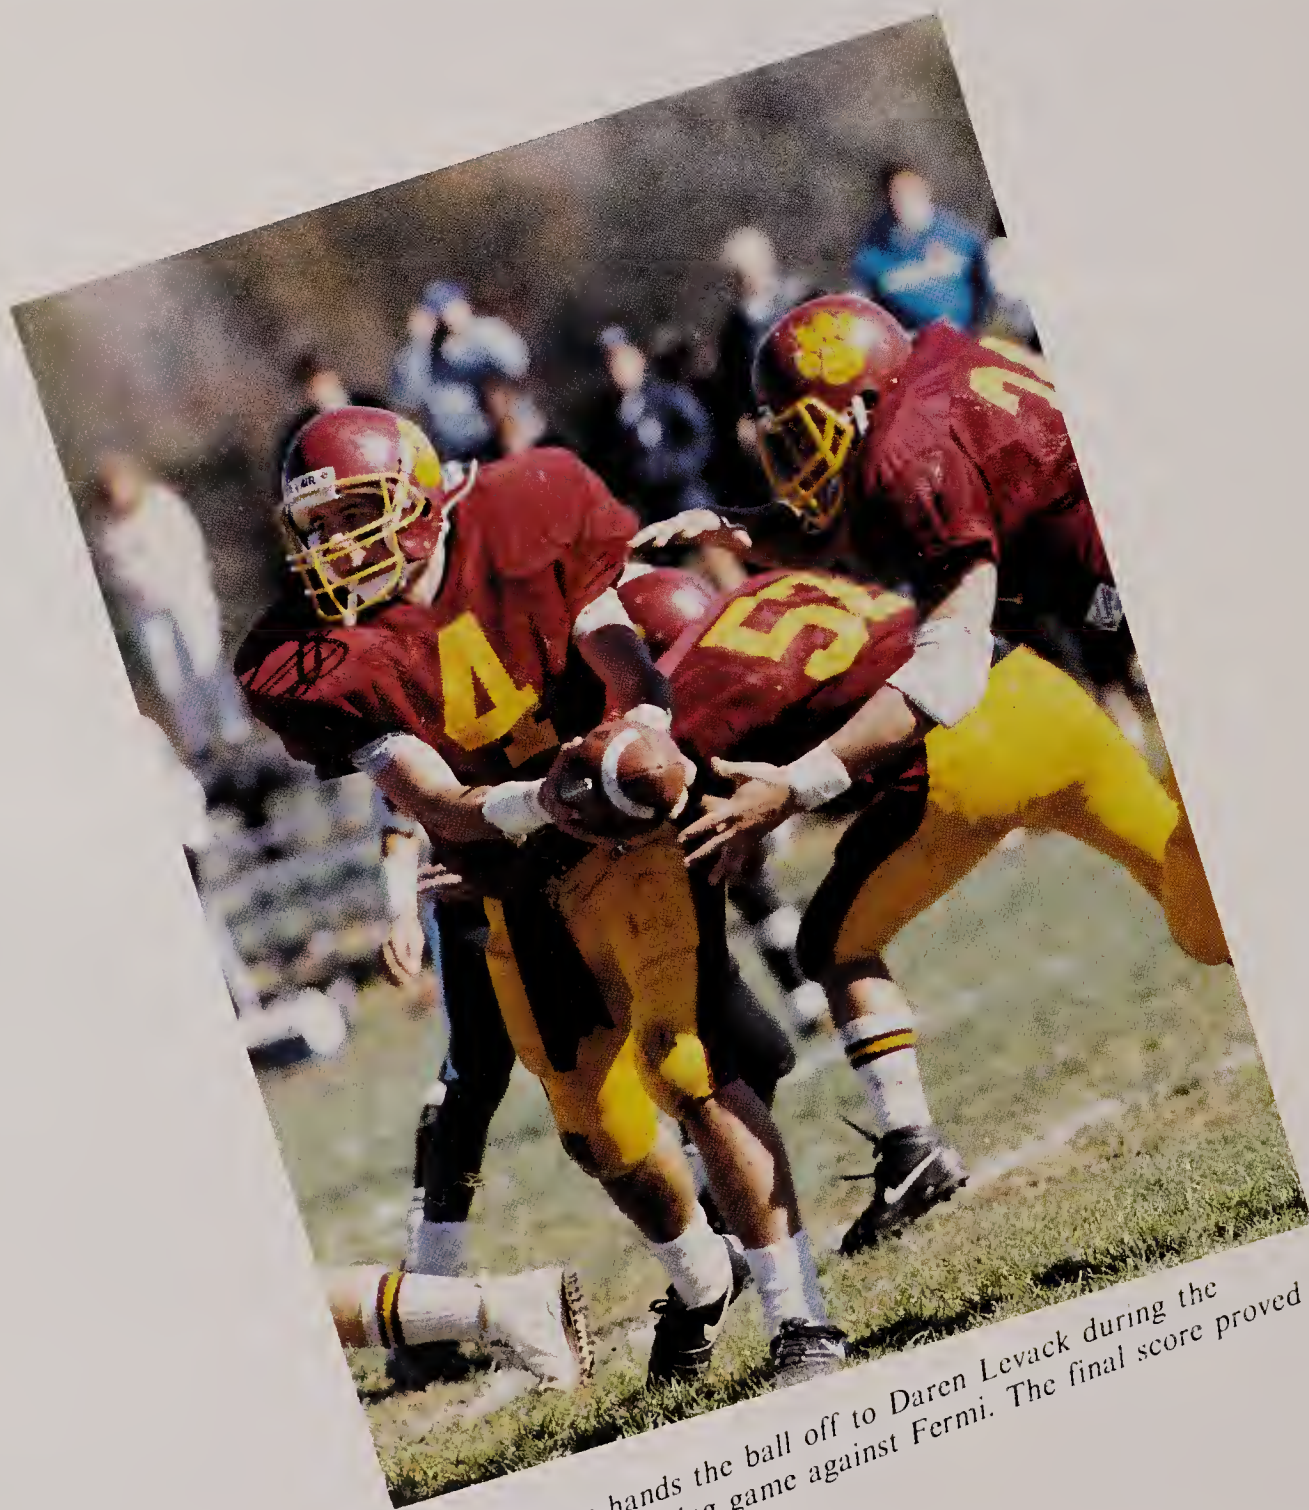

The weekend of October 19th - 21st was a special weekend for many students, old and new. It was homecoming weekend at South Windsor High School. A time for former students to remember their years here at SWHS, and a time for memories to be built for the students of today.

It was all started by the bonfire. The fire was perfect. It was warm as well as bright, on a night that couldn't seem to get much colder. The warm flames and great school spirit kept the bonfire alive for awhile, but the cold seemed to get the best of everyone. People huddled into the cafeteria for cider and doughnuts, while watching football highlights on tape.

Saturday was the football game. During halftime the homecoming court made their appearance in flashy convertibles. They were the first highlight, and the Bobcat offense was the second. At the end of four quaters the score was 61-12 in favor of the Bobcats.

Later that evening the Homecoming Dance was held in the Gym. 400 dancing fools attended the dance which had a Luau theme. Many students came in costume and shared a great end to the Homecoming weekend.

Brad Simmons hands the ball off to Daren Levack during the successful homecoming game against Fermi. The final score proved we were the dominate team.

This Is The Time...

Good friends Roxanne Aquije and Dave Cormier get together before picking up their dates for the Junior Prom, to share a memory and a smile.

Tuxes and long gowns, sun and sand; these are the elements that made the Junior Prom experience an impressionable one. It was a beautiful sunny day on Friday, May eighteenth. One that set the tone for the events of the weekend.

First it was off to Vito's Birch Mountain Inn for an elegant dinner, and some romantic dancing on the very small dance floor (boy was it crowded). Then back home for a few hours of much needed sleep. The next day everyone set off for the beaches of Rhode Island. The day at the beach consisted of challenging volleyball games, beach patrol visits, and throwing people in the cold ocean water.

Jeremy Colvin remembers the day as "one of the best times I've ever had." This sentiment was shared by many of us who took part in this prom experience.

It would be wonderful if the Juniors enjoyed their prom as much as we enjoyed ours.

Tim Evans and Nicole Gagnon spend a few minutes together after dinner and before an evening of dancing.

SWHS Traveling

Many students at SWHS are now experienced foreign travelers. Spain, France and England were the destinations for this group of kids. Those participating encountered many new and different cultures.

"The European attitudes toward American tourists," said Stephanie Bayer, "was unlike anything I expected. While in Spain, we traveled to many small cities, and saw many cathedrals."

The group that went to France stayed in French high school student's homes during part of their trip. "This was something we won't forget," said Dave Cormier. "Communicating with the French families was quite difficult."

The Louvre, Eiffel Tower, and the Palace of Versailles were visited by the french exchange students.

While the group that toured England had less language difficulties, they had just as many sights to see. Buckingham Palace, the changing of the guard and Big Ben were some of the stops included in their tour.

Remember When...

Remember when we were so young
And going to recess was so much fun.

We started learning our ABC's
And quickly moved to the 123's.
Teams came along and so did new friends

We started to grow up all over again;
And as if growing up were not enough

The days ahead would be just as tough.

For now we're in high school
And times sure have changed;
Growing up so fast

While our lives are rearranged.

But as we approach the end, my friend,

There are still more good times waiting to begin;

But when you think of those special times

Always remember these few lines.

We've had great moments, back then,

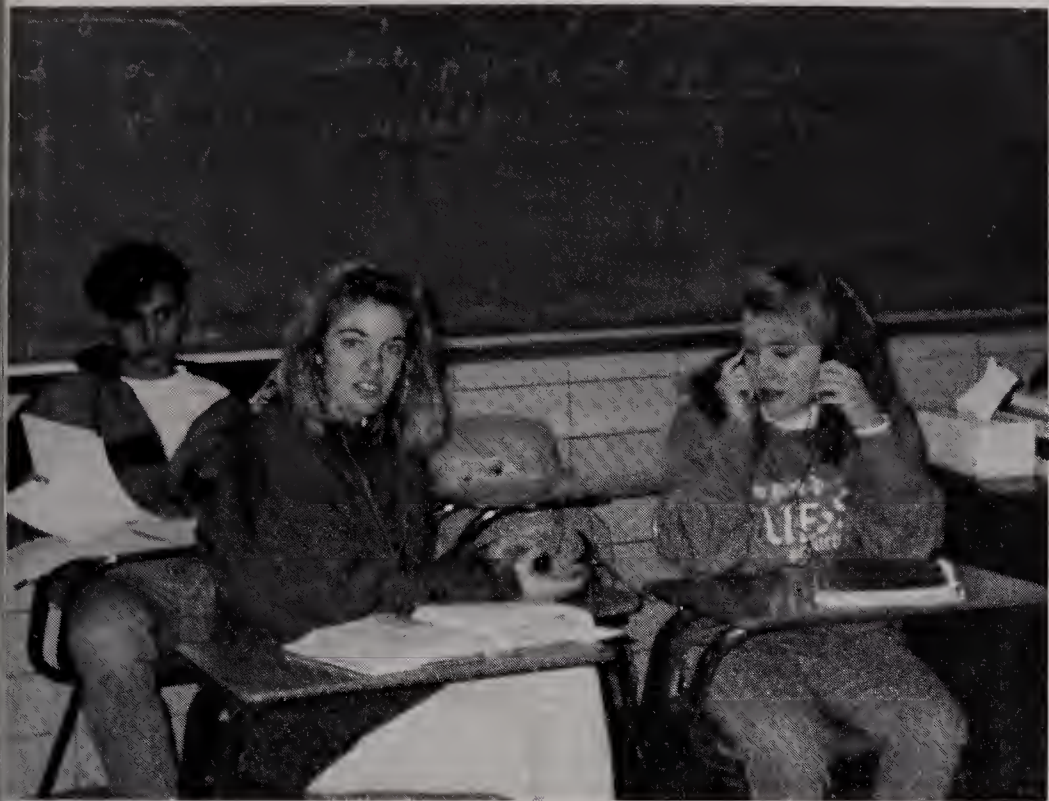

And I will always happily remember when...

Life after two at SWHS

After the final bell rings at South Windsor High School, there is a mad rush for the outside doors. Many students hurry to their cars or buses to leave the school, but some of us have to stay for sports, activities, detentions, extra help, or just to hang around with friends.

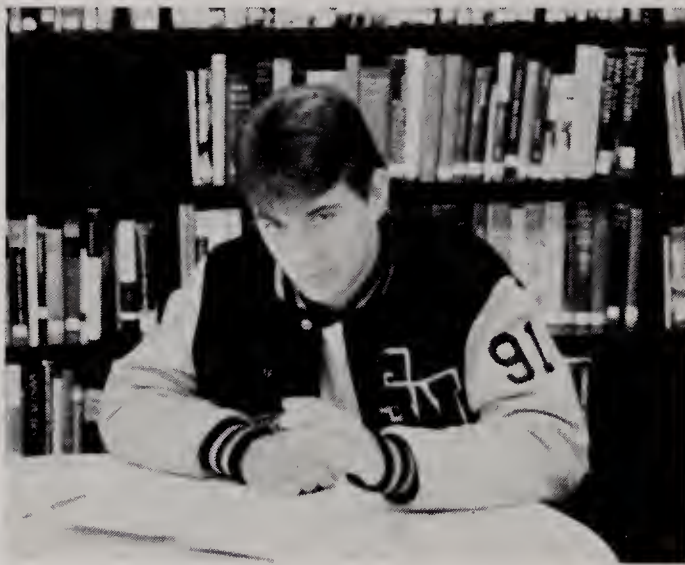

If you happen to journey by the soda machine you will find clusters of students fighting for the first soda, for it is always a challenge to obtain a Coke. Walking to the locker rooms you will encounter many kids getting themselves ready for their various school sports. If you chose to take a tour of the classrooms you may see students with teachers, staying for that last help before the big test on the next day. If you happen to pass by the A. V. room, many students might be sitting quietly for office detention.

As you can see, there are many activities for students to participate in. You will never be bored after two. From extra help to playing sports, students can always find something to do.

Always working hard on the job, Mr. Schakner does some of his paper work in the library.

Nikki Gagnon stands amid loads of candy at Oola in the new Buckland Mall.

When the final bell sounds most students jump in our cars and drive off to an after school job. We earn money for college, cars, and other luxuries.

Many of us who work, have to deal with tough bosses, hard work, and difficult customers. We get small paychecks and usually have to do all the grunt work. The hardships are for one important reason money!

Despite our young age we have monetary responsibilities. We have to handle the pressures of school and an adult atmosphere like job. Hardworking senior Steve Smith says "It's a good way to earn money, but I would rather be doing other activities. Work takes up too much of my free time."

Good jobs are hard to come by, so most working students take what jobs they can get.

FACULTY

Administration

Mr. G. Plunkett

The South Windsor High School administration plays an important part of the daily life here at the high school. The daily problems of the students and staff must always be dealt with, and our administrators have always proven to be a helpful and caring group. Whether it's handing out detentions, signing in students late for school, or just talking to a student who has a personal problem, the administrators and office staff can always be counted on.

At the beginning of February, Mr. Plunkett left SWHS for a three month sabbatical to finish his course work for a doctorate degree in education. While he is doing research for his dissertation, Mr. Bordonaro will be the acting principal. Mr. Hermes will trade his teaching role for a promotion to acting vice principal. Mr. Hermes was selected for this temporary position because of his administrative qualifications. He has his sixth year degree in educational administration from UCONN. "I'm an involved teacher, with experience in coaching and adult education," says Mr. Hermes. "I get along with everyone and am a familiar face in these halls."

Mrs. Whitlock, one of the many in the office staff, enjoys her work here in SWHS. For seventeen years, she has been a devoted worker to the office staff. When asked why she enjoys her job so much, her reply was simple, "I enjoy being with the students and seeing different people. A usual day in the office is never dull." Mrs. Whitlock feels that the most rewarding thing about being a secretary in the high school is watching the students grow and mature from a Freshman to a Senior.

Annual Art Exhibition is successful

Once again the art classes did an outstanding job at the annual art exhibition which was held at the South Windsor Public Library. Miss Hach organized the exhibition and helped ensure its success. The exhibition was opened to the public on May 1st. The library windows displayed the art projects made by students. Among the projects displayed were silver bracelets, rings, earrings, and pottery. The opening reception at the public library included demonstrations by the students. During this time students made silver jewelry and gave ceramic demonstrations. The exhibition allowed South Windsor students to display their work for the public to see. It was a great opportunity for talented young artists to be recognized for their hard work. At the end of May the displays were taken down, ending a year of hard work and success.

The art department is also busy planning the new studio now under construction. Once finished, students and teachers will be able to enjoy the new facilities.

Physical Education

Physical Education classes change for the better

The physical education program has changed in many ways this year. We are now on a points system. Ten points can be earned for each class, and an average of seven points are needed to pass. Points are awarded for promptness, participation, sportsmanship, proper care of equipment, and demonstration of skills.

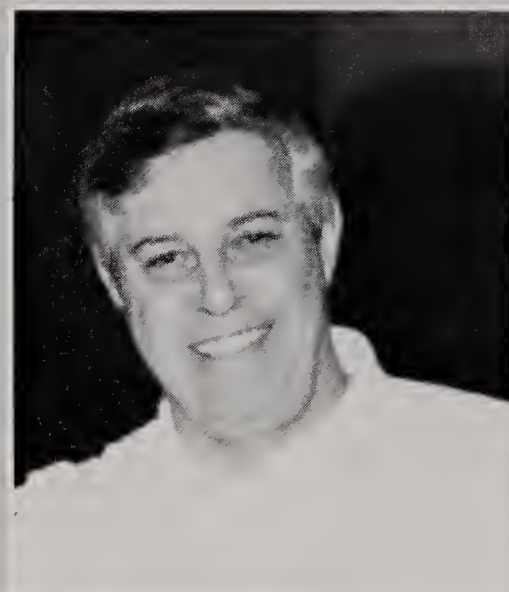

The freshmen have been hit the hardest. They take gym everyday for one semester, earn real letter grades, and receive half a credit. They learn "Fitness for Life," a program that teaches them how to stay in shape. The sophomores take gym everyday for one semester and earn half a credit. They play team sports. The upperclassmen take gym three out of the six days and play life time sports. "We believe fitness is really important, and we want students to believe so too. We wanted people to take gym more seriously, and also have a good time doing it," said Coach Bishop.

In Touch with Business!

The Business Department has been implementing changes in technology for an improved business education program. The changes reflect the current practices in the office environment and business world. The Department's goal is two-fold: general business education for all students and specific vocational skills for the business-oriented student.

The Business Department has installed an IBM network lab that is used to teach beginning keyboarding, word processing for both college-bound and vocational students, and computerized accounting. The network has provided the business teachers with the ability to teach current technology with up-to-date software and hardware.

With the introduction of new computer and business English courses, the department has been able to maintain a broad base of students ranging from college bound to general studies. The Business Department is able to serve the needs of the entire student body with its elective curriculum.

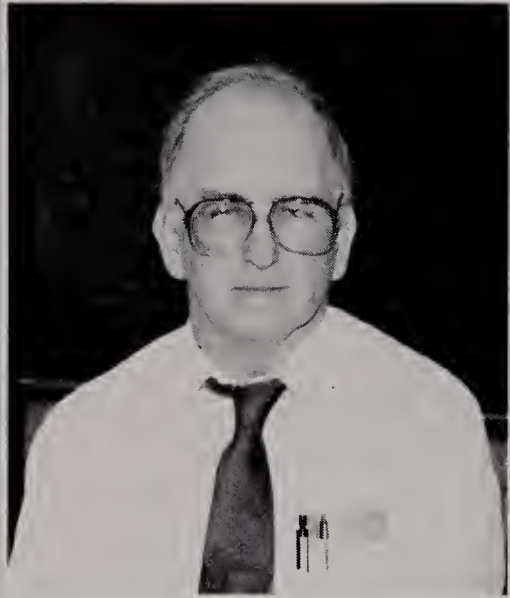

This year we also had an active chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America. This organization is an extracurricular activity for those students interested in all aspects of business, with a special focus on the young entrepreneur. There were 22 students enrolled in FBLA, with the majority taking part in the area and state competitions.

Mr. Duclos takes over for Miss Muldoon who is on sabbatical

Where is Miss Muldoon? Well, she's not in room 229. Miss Muldoon has taken a year off and is on sabbatical. Over the summer she was busy working on the curriculum for the 10-4 American Literature class. "It was very hard but helped me a lot," she said. Late in August she finished the first half of the curriculum and although it wasn't required, she completed the entire curriculum. She said with a smile, "I felt obligated to finish it." The time off enabled her to look back on the year and make any changes she thought necessary to improve the way the course is taught.

From the time in October to next September, Miss Muldoon spends much of her time broadening her English teaching skills. "I've been reading about different theories of interpreting to see how different people interpret the literature we teach here." She hopes that this reading will enable her to better understand her students and how they are arriving at their ideas derived from the material. This should prove to be a help to next year's English program. About her plans for next school year Miss Muldoon said, "Come September, I'll be ready."

This year we added Mr. Duclos to our teaching staff. Mr. Duclos puts so much into his teaching, most would think teaching was his dream. This is not so. Mr. Duclos, otherwise known as Coach Duke, majored in business. He owned a liquor store and his life seemed near perfect, but 7 years later he realized he wanted more out of life. Mr. Duclos decided he wanted to make a difference. He had watched the students at football practice and was inspired. He saw himself in those players. He too made football his life just like they had. He came to the conclusion that he would help these kids make something of themselves. He wanted to be a teacher! Mr. Duclos began taking classes at Central Connecticut State University. Last year Mr. Duclos began student teaching, but he prefers teaching his own classes now. He has already begun to interest his students, not only on the football field, but in the classroom as well. We are proud to have Mr. Duclos on our teaching staff.

Miss S. Kell

Ms. Wilson stands in front of the spanish bulletin board. The bulletin board shows pictures from "la playa" which means the beach. She was busy this year organizing The Friends of Ocotal, an organization which raised money to send to the people in Nicaragua.

Over the past several years, the foreign language department, in addition to its field trips within the United States, Europe and Africa, has sponsored an Exchange Program with the Lycee Camille St. Saens in Rouen, France. This program allows South Windsor students to travel less expensively by staying in the homes of French hosts, and be able to experience first hand the French language and culture. The program in France includes several days in Paris, and overnight field trip to Mont St. Michel, an opportunity to attend a French High School and countless informal activities with french students. This phase of the Exchange takes place over April vacation and is open to students in upper-level French classes.

Equally important is the State-side phase of the program, which usually takes place at the end of October. French students spend several days in South Windsor and have enthusiastically attended high school classes, football games, Homecoming dances and Halloween parties. This program has touched the lives of many South Windsor students and their families and will continue to do so for many years.

This year, the spanish classes held a fund raiser to help the Friends of Ocotal. This organization is currently caught up in the Nicaraguan civil uprisings. They need money so they can continue their fight against illiteracy, poverty and a poor and unhealthy standard of living. With the support of the students in our school we helped the people in Nicaragua. Ms. Wilson organized this fund raiser with the help of Mr. Bordonaro. The students in her spanish classes sold breakfast items during the week of midterms to raise money for the Friends of Ocotal. The class has also made Christmas gifts and a video tape to send to the students in Ocotal.

Helping Hands

The College Search! Who wants it? Not many people enjoy everything that goes along with the college selecting process. The turmoil and frustration felt by nearly every senior can be pretty overwhelming at times. There is, however, something that every senior can count on to help out with this inevitable aggravation--the guidance department. Whether it be writing a recommendation or simply mailing out the application packet, the guidance staff is there in one way, shape or form to make life a little easier for the stressed-out senior.

The Guidance Department follows each class through their four years of high school, aiding in anything from a personal problem to which colleges are acceptable for a particular student. They help to find jobs for students who are members of Cooperative Work Experience, which is helpful in preparing us to enter the "real world".

As the seniors are accepted and leave to the colleges of their choice, the Guidance Department will remain behind to help the underclassmen. They will continue to be a big part of helping the underclassmen to choose their courses for the next years. And later, to lend a helping hand with everything to do with the college process.

Future planning to meet the needs of the students begins to unfold as new courses are added to the curriculum in the Home Economics department. Emphasis on good health, substance abuse, peer relations, and personality development has brought about a new course, Relationships and Choices. This course was designed for the 9th grade students to help them with the transition from middle school to high school. It helps them deal with the problems that many face during some point of their high school career.

Bake Shop and Entertaining With Foods have given practical experience to students who plan careers in the food services. The students in Bake Shop sell banana bread, cakes, and brownies to the teachers. Food for Life is another new course in food study and preparation. This class focuses on the dietary needs for a healthy life.

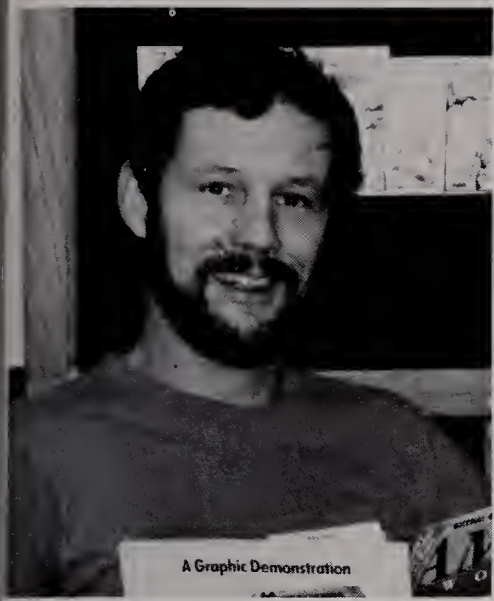

The child development classes main objective is to learn how to operate a preschool. Students work with the children of the community for hands-on experience. The Learning Center continues to be the bright spot in the day for big and little students.

As spring nears, plans are developing for a fashion show. Students in the Fashion Design class volunteer to participate in the fashion show. The students go to area stores and pick out clothes to wear in the fashion show. This is the highlight and culmination of study for the students in the Fashion Design class.

Mrs. Christensen was chosen by the state of Connecticut as an official delegate to attend the National Meetings of the American Home Economics Association. She is a dedicated and caring teacher who teaches a variety of classes. This meeting took place in Minneapolis, MN in June.

I.T. Keeping pace with a changing world

New to the Industrial Technology department are courses in video communications, manufacturing, computer aided drafting and design, and robotics.

Mr. Colpitts, the video communications instructor, has brought enthusiasm and a host of new equipment to this program. Students have taken a distinct liking to the video course and have entered three videos in the Penny Awards competition. The students are able to overlay graphics on video tapes, frame grabbing video to make photographs for use in the newspaper, and gain an overall knowledge of what makes a successful video.

Mr. Mothersele's manufacturing class has made copy holders out of plexiglass for the Journalism/Graphics Arts classes. This project was carried through from the rough idea stage to the finished product. In Robotics, students are taught how to program computers to operate a type of robot used in automated manufacturing.

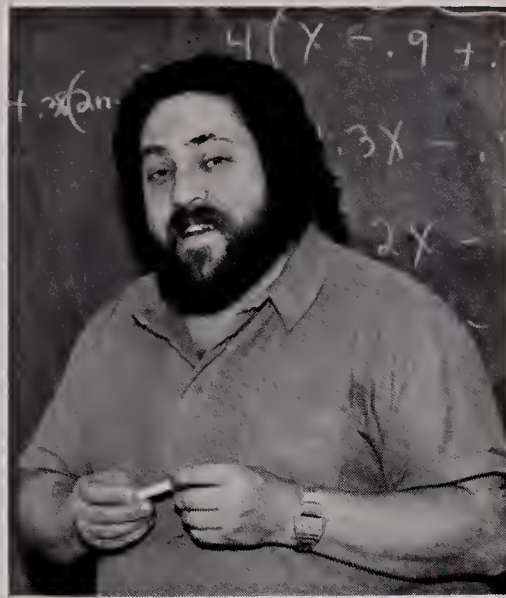

The drafting classes are now working with CAD, computer aided design, on fifteen new IBM compatible computers. This has brought new possibilities for achievement in the areas of architectural design and machine part drafting. Mr. Schoenborn has brought about these changes and has made drafting at SWHS an exciting place to be.

Mr. R. Vanesse

The math department has undergone many significant changes this year that add up to the "new and improved" South Windsor High School. Whether it be the emphasis on the usage of calculators within the classroom or the Math Resource Room, the Math Department is looking forward to exciting upcoming years. Beginning with a beneficial change to aid the students, the Math Department opened a Resource Room. It is located in Wapping 4, every period except the seventh period when it is in Wapping 14, and is open five out of the seven periods for students to receive assistance on anything from homework to instruction on a missed lesson. Although some students are not yet aware of the Resource Room, many show an enthusiastic response to its benefits. The teachers believe it will become more and more popular. Mr. Bojarski and Mr. Vanesse have recently taken over Mr. Joy's advisory position on the math team. Mr. Joy has been an active supporter of the Math Team for several years and has always had a positive influence on his kids. The Math Team is excited about their new advisors, but they still feel a great loss with the absence of Mr. Joy and his humor. The Team is confident that Mr. Bojarski and Mr. Vanesse will have plenty of advice and help to offer their activity.

Oxford & SWHS unite

A lot has been going on with the South Windsor High School band. Two weeks before Christmas vacation, Mr. Lazzerini or Lazz, as he is known by his students, became ill. As a result his illness postponed the winter band concert. Instead of playing before Christmas the band played in January. Although, the concert was performed after Christmas it was still a success.

The music department held their annual exchange concert with Oxford, MA. On March 23rd our band and choral groups traveled to Oxford High. The students had a great time staying with host families. Their performance was one of the finest of the year. On April 6th it was our turn to host the students from Oxford High. While here the students interacted in activities that were planned for their enjoyment. Such activities included: a dance held on Saturday night, breakfast on Sunday morning, and the concert at 2 p.m. on Sunday. The exchange program gives students a chance to play instruments or sing with another school. It was a learning experience for all who were involved.

Mr. Lazzerini walks the field during marching band rehearsal. He is always prepared to use his whistle during the rehearsals.

Media Center

New copier installed

The Media Center is the place where students can go to find material for a search paper, to study quietly, or to use the new copy machine. The Media Center is equipped with numerous reference books, magazines, a Newsbank computer, and the new student copy machine. The copy machine is a newest addition to our Media Center. For years the students wanted their own copy machine and this year they got their wish. Many students were happy at the school's decision to add the copy machine.

The Media Center is the one place in this school where students can escape and find some peace and quiet. It is a place to work yet it is relaxing with the noise of construction far off in the distance. It is a place filled with people who are always willing to give students a hand in finding a book or demonstrating how to use any of the reference materials. The media specialists are always glad to be of assistance to anyone who needs help.

“King of the Hill” competition is a success

On your mark get set go! Two cars took off from the start, battling it out in fifteen seconds or less to overcome the other car and cross the crest. The King of the Hill Competition occurred on Wednesday, January 9 1991, during several class periods. The finals were the next day for the top three cars in each class.

Although cars came in many different sizes and shapes and had different ways of powering themselves, they all followed the same standard requirements. Contestants were allowed to have a car only eight inches wide by twelve inches long. The materials for this project were very specific but peculiar. The designers could use two mouse-traps, eight rubber bands, a 12x12x1/4 inch piece of plywood, two coffee cans, two 1 or 2 liter bottles, four jar lids, string, any three foot dowel, a piece of cardboard, two wire coat hangers, and any type of glue or fasteners. Just your normal everyday household goods that everyone has around!

Cars using any or all of these materials must make it up and over the top of a three foot long, three inch high ramp and stay on the opponents' side for fifteen seconds to win. Most people would feel this is a short amount of time, but for someone standing behind the starting blocks, it is an eternity.

Science Department chairman and physics teacher Mr. Brown came up with this idea from a competition at MIT. “We avoided giving concrete ideas, no pun intended, to allow the students to think up their own,” said Mr. Brown.

Having already run the preliminary rounds, the finals were the best. Twelve cars, three from each class remained. There were a large variety of designs using all of the materials available. “I was impressed with the variety of ideas generated among the students involved,” said Mr. Brown.

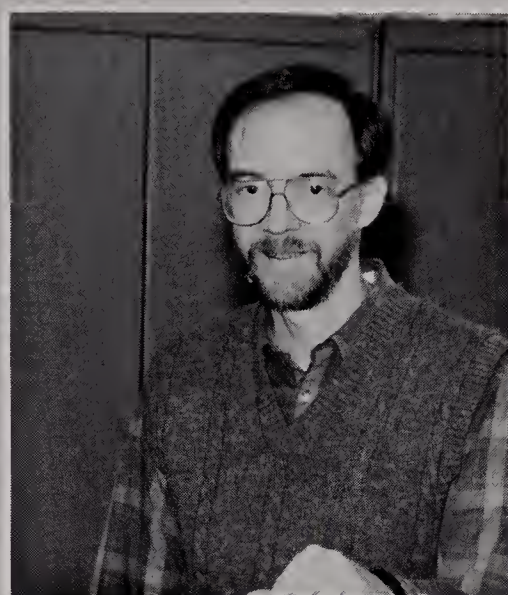

The winners were Danielle Morrisette and Jen Bilodeau. Their winning plywood machine was propelled by a sling shot mechanism. The competition went very well and in the future the teachers hope it will be a bigger success.

Building Blocks

The Social Studies department, along with many others in the school, are undergoing changes and are still achieving recognition for their efforts. New programs are being designed for incoming Freshmen like the new American Studies program. As the department expands course wise, so will it content wise.

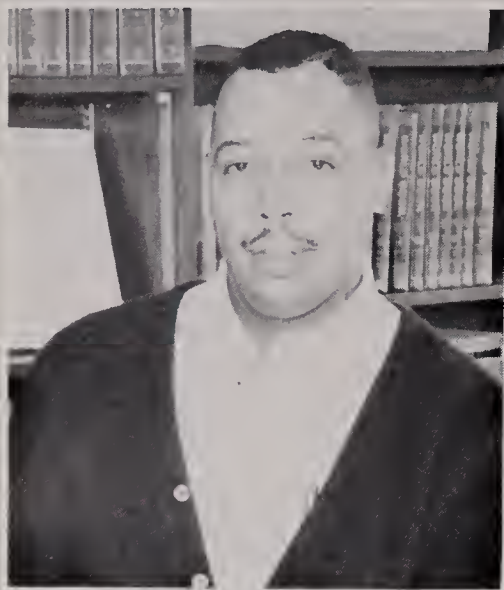

As always, the course entitled Constitutional, Criminal and Civil Law is popular among the students at SWHS. With invigorating competitions like the Mock Trial and the Bicentennial Competition, students enjoy the hard and time consuming work involved with knowing the Constitution of the United States thoroughly enough to answer any question about it, or knowing how our judicial system works. And such honors as placing first in the state at the Bicentennial competition will never be forgotten.

As the construction goes on at SWHS, changes can and are expected, and like every department, the Social Studies department will benefit from the new building and everyone involved in it.

Specialists help students to succeed at organization, test taking, and self-awareness skills

The special education program helps students develop skills that help them succeed at SWHS. The skills taught in the resource room are organization, test taking strategies, and self-awareness.

Organization is often critical to success in school. Students in this program are taught to organize in many ways. They might use dates to show where their notes start from one day to the next or highlight notes to make important things stand out in their minds. Clustering or outlining of the notes is another way to organize. Notebook checks by resource room teachers are done on a surprise basis, so students have to keep organized at all times. These notebook checks emphasize the importance of being organized not only with school work, but with other things as well.

Test taking strategies help students to achieve success on tests. Many skills are involved in taking tests. One skill is to know how a test is put together. Another skill is to evaluate how much time to spend on each section or question. This is to keep from spending too much time on one question. Spending too much time on one question does not help the student, but it can hurt the student.

The self-awareness part of the program is made up of many things. One aspect of self-awareness is to know how well you are doing in all of your classes. By knowing how well you are doing you can improve on the areas that need improvement. A charting notebook is kept by the students to keep track of how they are doing in their classes. Every two or three weeks resource room teachers check with subject teachers. Later students themselves ask teachers to chart their progress. This is a good way to keep track of your strengths and weaknesses related to your school work.

This program can do a lot for students who are willing to listen and learn from the teachers in the program. "Anybody in the program can get out of the program with determination and hard work," said Special Education teacher Mrs. Decker.

Get ready, Get set, Go... The Boys' Cross Country team is ready for the race to start. Both the Boy's and Girls' Cross Country team have had good saesons Patrina Gooden, a Junior, has contributed a lot not only to the Girls' Basketball team, but to the Girls' Cross Country and the Girls' Track team also. Patrina transferred from Weaver High School, where she ran Track, Cross Country and played Basketball. Coach Stocklosa stated that, "Patrina is the kind of athlete that fit into our running program and unselfishly contributed to the teams winning record." She made a big difference to the team.

Go with it Nick!! This years Freshman Basketball team has had players like Nick Hermes and Ken Gozdeck. After a steal, Nick breaks for the basket and two uncontested points.

Girls' Basketball

This year's Girls' Basketball Season started off with a bang! With a new coach and a team anxious for an improved season, they won their first five games. Led by senior captain Kristin Blume, the Bobcats did qualify for the state tournament.

Kristin Blume states, "We were all proud to make it to the state tournament; it was a great accomplishment and a grand finale for my senior year."

With the help of junior Patrina Gooden they completed their season with a record of 11-11. Her fast speed and great basketball ability pushed the Bobcats further and further to the win column.

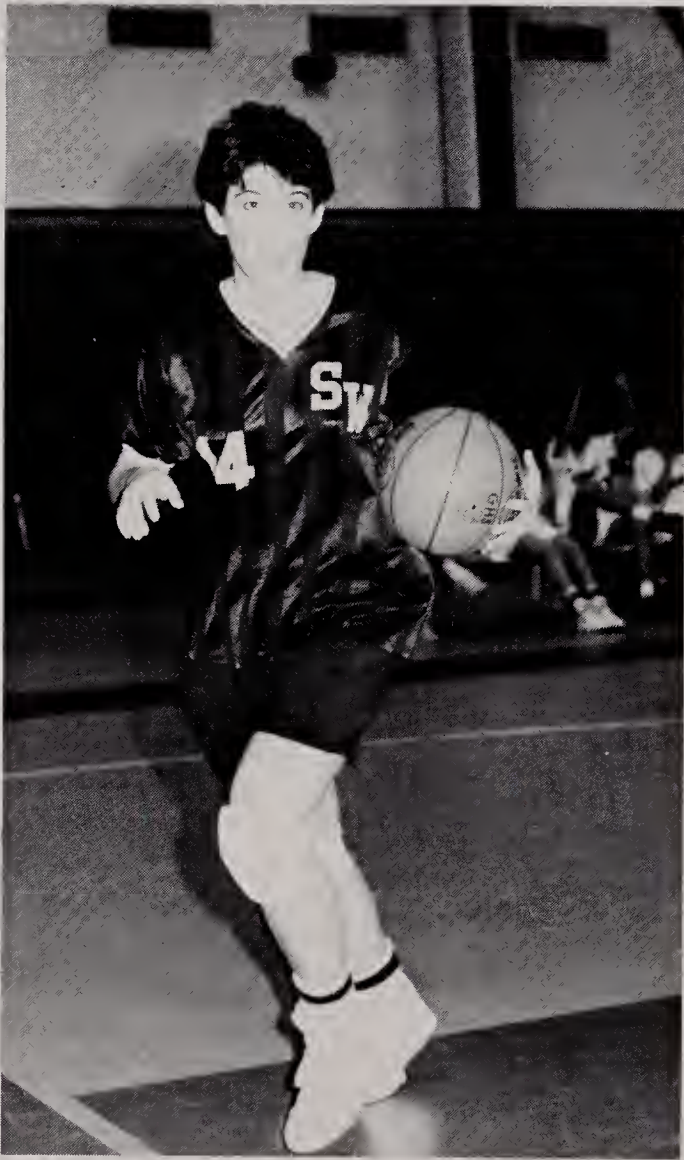

Sophomore Stacie Cassarino led this year's team in scoring. Her great shooting skills earned the team many more wins. Stacie exclaimed, "We had a great season, it was a learning experience for all of us."

Coach Collins first year coaching Girl's Varsity Basketball has proved to be successful. His time and patience served as an inspiration to his team and resulted in a winning season.

Indoor Track

The boys Indoor Track team had an exceptionally good season this year. The team was led by quad captains; Jeremy Colvin, Geoffrey Willard, Jeffrey Backman, and Jason Smith, who not only kept the team in line, but were a few of the many outstanding athletes on the team.

The team won the league title in the CCC East. The team achieved their goal of winning the State Open. With the team's hard work and determination, they stand an excellent chance to gaining the title.

Coach LaBreche stated, "This is the best team I've ever coached. I feel that with their leadership and talent we can go all the way."

The girls Indoor Track team was led by tri-captains Chris Smith, Karen Groebel, Laura Salcius. These girls have been a key factor in the success of the team. The girls finished fourth in the CCC Championships and their meet record is 8-1. The team looks forward to States; and the majority of the girls will compete.

Gymnastics

The gymnastics team had an average year, according to them. However, it wasn't easy for them to achieve their 7-10-0 record because of all of the injuries and sickness to key members of the team.

Rebecca Mastronarde, one of the team's best gymnasts was injured early on in the season. She had a bone chip in her ankle which kept her on crutches and in an air cast for the whole season. Another key teammate, freshman Jessica Aman, had to sit out most of the season do to a case of mononeucleosis.

The loss of these two people prevented the team from making the state meet as a team. Only two individuals were able to make the state meet. They were senior Jackie Taylor on floor and junior Traci Rusate floor and beam. Unfortunately neither of the two placed at the end of the meet to qualify for the state open, but both turned in great routines.

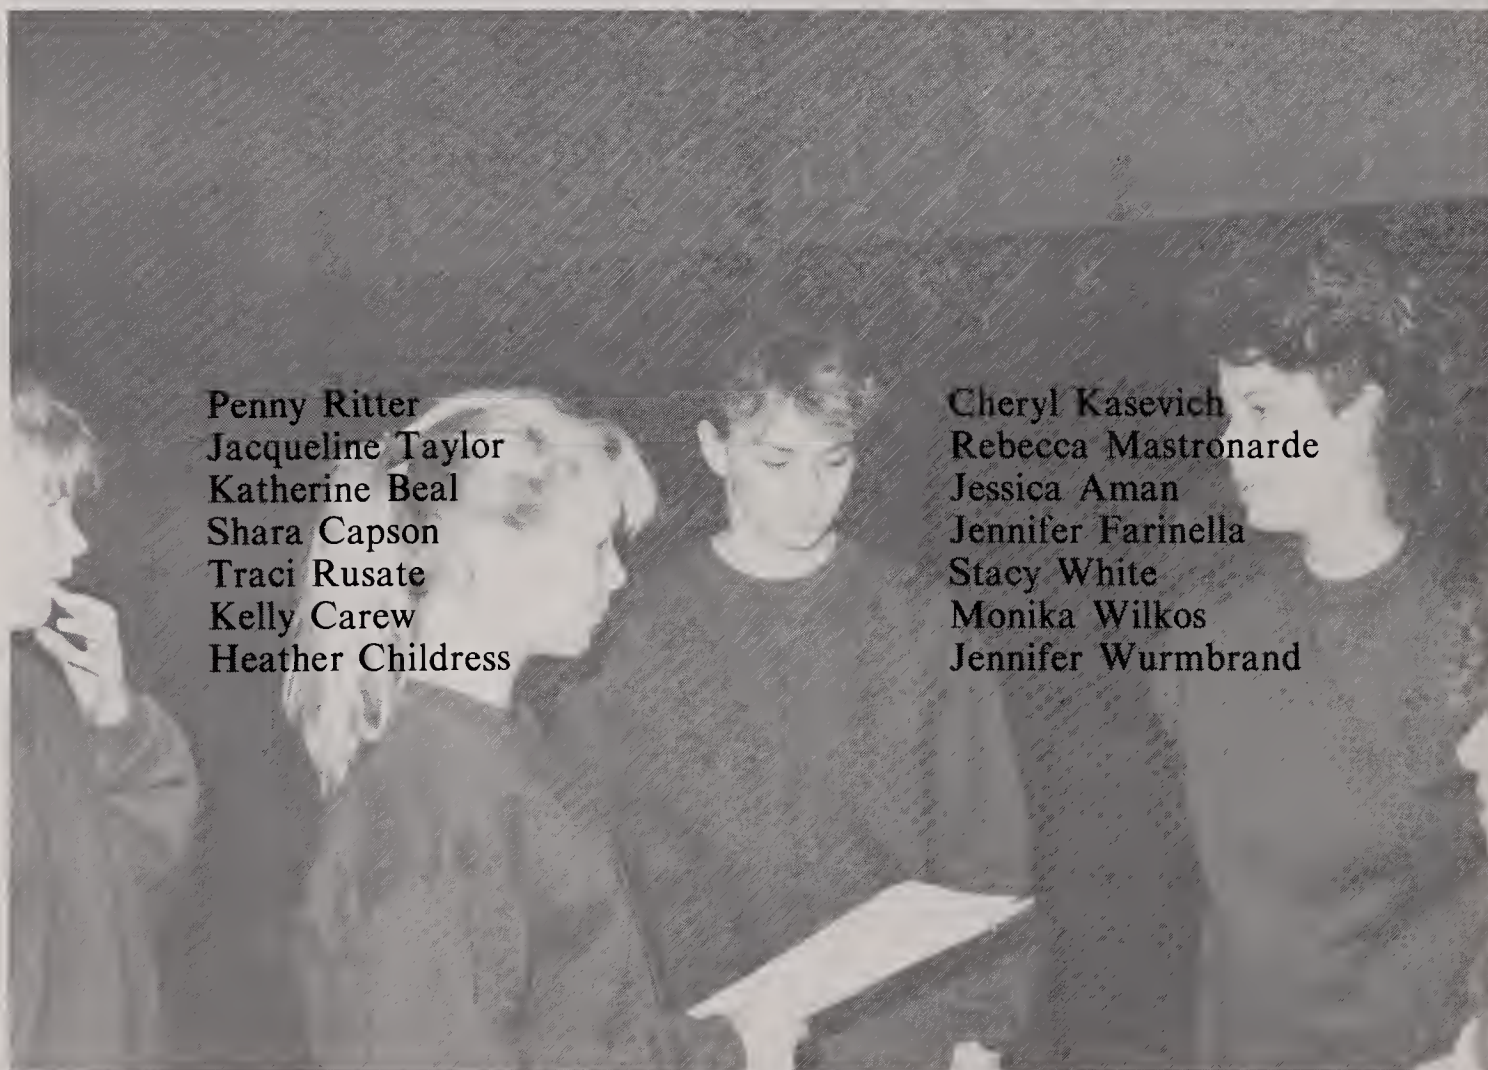

Another reason the team did so well was because of their coach Carol Baker. She always had encouraging words and a smile for her gymnasts.

Sophomore Becky Mastronarde had a bone chip which kept her out of most of this year's season. Fortunately the injury wasn't very serious.

Senior captain Jackie Taylor chawks her hands in preperation for her warm up on the bars. She was a big part of this years team.

Cheerleaders

Cheerleaders have great year: 14 girls made squad, help support banner year for SWHS teams

This year's cheerleading squad put in many hours practicing their numerous cheers. Rock Steady and Rowdy were two of the most popular cheers that motivated the crowd and got them pumped up for the games.

This year's squad consists of 14 girls. They are led by senior co-captains Melissa Kuehnel and Missy Magnano. Both have been on the squad in previous years, making their presence known to both the squad and the school.

"After every touchdown" says Tanya Scalora, "we throw small plastic footballs into the stands. This keeps up the enthusiasm of the faithful Bobcat followers."

The squad also cheers for the soccer team at home games and for the boys' basketball team as well.

The nine senior cheerleaders aren't the only ones whose presence is noticed. The underclassmen cheerleaders add a lot to the spirit of our school with the help of Coach Jeff Johnson, who has begun his second year as cheerleading coach.

"Coach has given us the motivation to be the best we can possibly be," says senior Coleen Brown.

Cheerleader Liz Chevrier raised on her teammate Jessica Mosur's shoulders, lets out a scream for the soccer team.

Missy Magnano and Melissa Kuehnel have been on the squad since they were sophomores. This year they were chosen co-captains.

Cheerleaders J. Mosur, M. Magnano, M. Olson, S. Wiggs, T. Scalora, J. Levack, and K. Hemp huddle at the bonfire in order to keep warm.

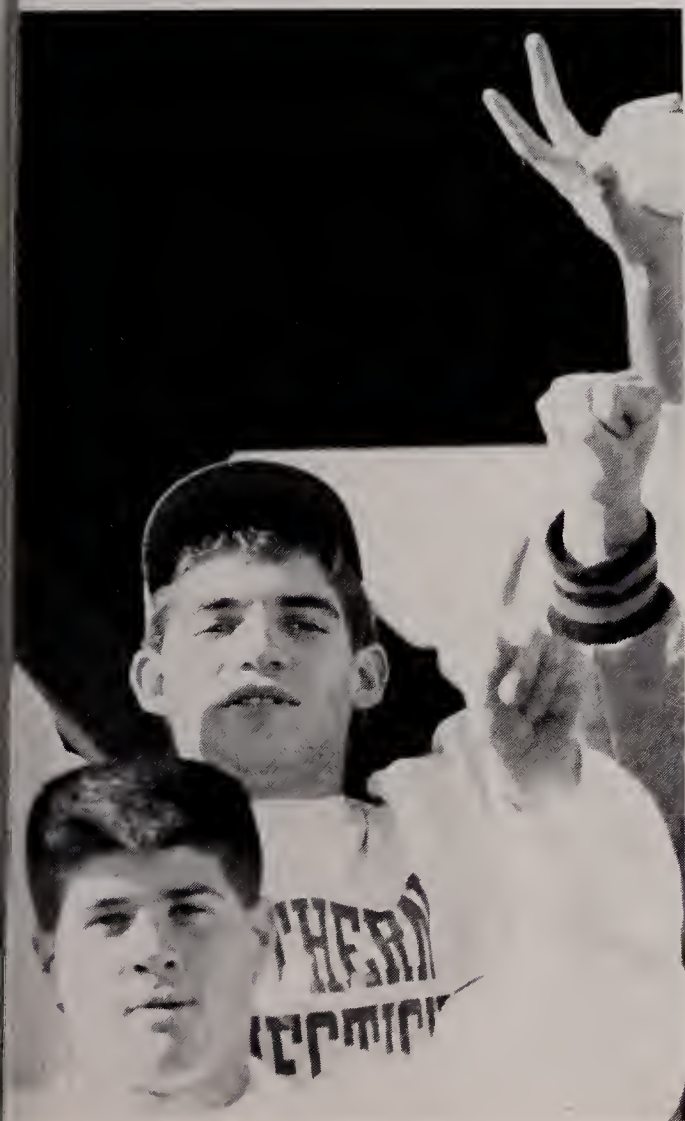

Bobcat Fans

This year the Bobcat Faithful were present at all of the school's sporting events. Some of our fans drove as far as Milford to cheer on the Field Hockey team and as far as Newtown to cheer for the Soccer team.

One thing is for sure, we could always count on the Bobcat Faithful to be supportive of all the sports teams. These loyal fans gave the extra support that our teams needed. Their support encouraged the teams to do better and created a winning attitude. The Bobcat Faithful encouraged school and team spirit. Without these loyal fans and their support throughout the school year we might not have had done so well.

The freshmen prove they've got that Bobcat spirit. Members of the volleyball, soccer, and field hockey teams cheer loudly at the fall pep rally in hopes of defeating the Senior class.

Juniors Noah Borrero and Ken Denicolo show they've got spirit as they cheer the football team on to victory.

Loyal Bobcat fans, Wendy Winar, Chris Corcoran, Leigh Kempinski, Sheila Stengel, and Tanya Scalora display their enthusiasm for the Bobcats at a football game. The football team appreciates the support of faculty, staff, students, parents, and friends that cheer them on to victory.

Girls' Cross Country

This year's girls Cross Country team was very successful. The team was small in number, but big on talent. The girls demonstrated excellent desire and dedication to win.

The team consisted of nine runners led by two seniors, captain Linda Baron, and Allison Pinette. Both are strong runners and provided great leadership to the underclassmen who showed great promise. With the help of next year's seniors, Laura Salcius, Karlyn Banda, and Patrina Gooden the team is sure to be quite competitive.

The girls ended their season with a record of 10 wins and 5 losses. This qualified the team for State Class L Championship. Laura Salcius and Patrina Gooden qualified for the State Open Meet. Laura made All-State and ran in the New England Regionals.

"This year's team was very successful. We had a winning season, which we haven't had for a couple of years. I think next year's team will be just as successful if not more," said Senior captain Linda Baron.

Boys' Cross Country

This year the boys' had a strong cross country team which was led by co-captains Geoff Willard and Chris Gabrielli. Their record was 12 wins and 1 loss. They almost captured the CCC East title, but were beat by arch rival Rockville.

The team made the Class L meet finishing 4th. Geoff Willard and John Hammond finished the Class L meet 5th and 9th respectively. The entire team qualified for the State Open Meet in which they placed 8th. Finishing 16th in that meet was Geoff Willard and 32nd was John Hammond.

Co-captain Geoff Willard had a superb year. He was the only member of the team to qualify for the New England Regionals. He placed 37th in that meet. Geoff Willard had this to say about the season, "We were disappointed in losing the conference to Rockville. We were disappointed in our 4th place finish in the State Open, but the team ran with a lot of heart throughout the season. We have nothing to be ashamed of."

Boys' Soccer

The boys varsity Soccer team slowly became the hottest team in the CCC East, qualifying for the state tournament during a 7-1-0 run at the end of their roller coaster season.

The team made a comeback from a 2-4-1 record in the first half of the season, to end with an 8-7-1 record. The team was spurred by the play of many senior starters, including: Jeremy Colvin, Jeff Brown, Bob Feher, Mike Raimondo and Kelly Marshall.

The team which is led by seniors is the best the school has seen in recent years. Although Shane Wirta, the starting goal keeper, missed a couple of games because of injuries, the team pulled together to qualify for post season play. During states the Bobcats won a tense game against Maloney in sudden death overtime.

The South Windsor Bobcats won the George D. Ritchie Sportsmanship Award by the Connecticut Soccer Officials. Jeff Collins a senior on the team said, "We really had a hard time winning in the first half of the season, but with spark play and a few goals to his name, Mike Raimondo helped the team win a few games in the second half of the season."

Coach Jack Longo expresses his feelings about the team's play in the first half. Chris Paulin, Dan Beaudry and Troy Kingston listen to Longo's soccer know how.

Rebuilding year Team makes states Next two years promising

Compared to last years season, this years was a rebuilding year. The team finished with a 10-6 overall record and 8-6 in the league, compared to last years 12-2-2 overall and 10-2-2 in the league. This may seem like a very large difference though the age difference may have been greater.

The 1990 girls' varsity soccer team was a very young team. They were nearly all underclassman.

"We had a young team," said Lauren Smutney "but with a great coach and team unity, we pulled together to have a winning season."

There were 12 underclassman and 9 seniors on the team, with 5 of 12 underclassman starting. This may be saying that the next few years of girls' soccer at South Windsor may produce a league contender or possible state champion.

Though South's seasons was not nearly as impressive as that of Manchester, they still produced two CCC East All-Conference players seniors Lauren Smutney and Beth bishop.

Champs again...

Again this year, the South Windsor girls' Field Hockey team emerged atop the CCC East pack, even though the title was shared with two other teams. The team ended with a 4-1-1 record in the conference and 11-3-2 in the league. "It was a rebuilding year," says Kym Gagnon, "We weren't expecting to win the conference, but we did."

Several players received all-conference honors. They were Jackie Taylor, Christine Smith, and Jennifer Mammen. Jackie Taylor also was elected to the all-state team and played in the senior all-star game.

This year's team also made a strong showing in the state tournament. They defeated Brookfield, in a mind numbing game ending in two sets of penalty strokes, 1-0. Though in the second round, they came up short against a tough Farmington team, losing 1-0.

Volleyball

This year's volleyball team was lead by co-captains, Kristin Blume and Stephanie Bayer. "It was difficult working with the new players, but as the season went on we ended up showing improvement," said Steff Bayer.

The team opened the season with a 3-0 win over Bloomfield, but lost 5 out of their next 7 games. Showing their true character, the team came back to win enough games to qualify for the state tournament. By the end of the regular season, their record stood at 10 wins and 8 losses.

The Bobcats played their first tournament game against Masuk High School. The team put up a good fight, but were defeated 0-3.

"I think, overall, we had a good season. We had a young team so it was difficult to beat some of the more experienced teams," said Kristin Blume.

The underclassmen are looking forward to a winning season next year and they know that with hardwork and dedication they can make it to the State tournament again.

Football

The 1990 football team definitely proved many people wrong. It was undoubtedly one of South Windsor's finest. Despite the small size of the team, they fought on with pride and determination. The team sported jerseys around school which read "Ironcat-A few tough men".

The highlight game of the season had to be the Homecoming victory over Fermi by a lopsided score of 61-12. This win was a great start to the Homecoming weekend.

Led by Senior tri-captains Jeff Bergren, Delon Hunt, and Brad

Symonds the Bobcats ended the season with an 8-2 record. The disappointing loss came on Thanksgiving Day when South Windsor lost to Rockville, falling eleven tenths of a point short of reaching the state tournament.

Senior Gabe Hathorn said, "Throughout the season everyone really pulled together and turned the team into a family."

Seniors selected to All-Conference Football included Brad Symonds, Delon Hunt, Jeff Bergren, Jeff Graham, Pete Andrews, Sean Fitzgerald, and junior Kevin Molloy. Brad Symonds was the only member of the team to make All-State.

The Junior Varsity and Freshmen teams had building years and although their seasons did not have as many victories as they had hoped for they show promise for next year's season.

As always, the Football program helps to build school spirit and create athletes with character. The community also is a great asset to the team showing their support in many intangible ways.

Hockey

After going 17-4 last season and 19-4 the year before, the Bobcat hockey team is poised to pounce on any and all of its opponents. Led by Senior tri-captains Jeff Bergren, Gabe Hathorn, and Marc Perry, the Bobcats will once again strive to come out atop the CCC East.

The 'Cats will not be content with merely a conference title, they want the whole thing, a state championship. They closed out last season with a loss to Notre Dame-West Haven in the state semi-finals and finished the '89-'90 campaign with a heart wrenching loss to Greenwich in the second round. "We won't settle for anything less than a state championship to end this season," said tri-captain Perry.

The offense return in top form featuring a balanced attack led by tri-captains Bergren and Hathorn, Junior Noah Borrero, and a tandem of outstanding Sophomores Rob Gagnon and Mike Weis. Newcomer, Freshman, Chris Clark also will hand in a high scoring punch.

The defense is anchored by Senior tri-captain Perry and a strong Sophomore, Jason Pitts. Rounding out the defense are Juniors Jeff House and Brian Murray.

"Expectations are high this year. We should be good enough to go all the way to the final," said Hathorn. Don't be surprised to see South on the ice come March.

Boys Basketball

Coming from a 3-17 record of a year ago, the Bobcats put together a one-year turnaround and a regular season record of 12-8. This team accomplished two major goals for Coach Gary Barcher and his team. The first was making the state tournament for the first time in four years, and the second was establishing their first winning season in over ten years.

This year's team, consisting of only three seniors: Mike Raimondo, Jeff Graham, and Derek Moll, relied much on their younger teammates. Junior Chris Calio led his team in scoring as well as being in the top five in the conference.

South Windsor faced off against Westhill in the Class LL state tournament. They lost a tough game 68-43, but they have nothing to be ashamed of as they brought glory back to South Windsor basketball.

Team unity is is one of the keys that made South Windsor basketball winners, which is displayed here in a pregame huddle.

Eight Singers Chosen to All State

This year has proven to be an outstanding year for the SWHS Music Department. Eight members of the vocal program qualified for the allstate chorus including, Heather Brown, Kate Callahan, Jim Daley, Colleen Mazur, Marc Perry, Kym Reinhard, Jeannine Stead and Carol Thomas. This achievement is viewed as a tremendous success by all other vocalists.

Over three thousand students throughout Connecticut audition for the allstate chorus each year. The odds of being chosen are one out of one hundred. Each student must prepare musical pieces to perform at the series of auditions. During these auditions the vocalists are graded on their performance.

Mr. Graner stated, "It doesn't get much better than this in the state. These musicians are the tops."

Kate Callahan was the first singer ever to be chosen from SWHS to sing with the All Eastern Chorus. Three hundred fifty high school students were chosen out of all the states east of the Mississippi River. Kate has been involved in music all her life. It began when she was five. She has always wanted to act, sing, and dance. She has been studying at the Hartford Conservatory for nine years now.

According to Mr. Graner, Kate has always demonstrated exceptional vocal talent and has the potential to be very successful. "She believes in persistence and extremely hard work." Obviously her hard work has paid off.

Exchange Concert Proves to be Successful

The Vocal Ensemble had a busy year performing numerous concerts. They opened the year with a "Classics" concert in December which was extremely successful. The weekend of March 23 was an exciting one for the students in the vocal ensemble. It was the weekend they traveled to Massachusetts to participate in an exchange concert. The vocal ensemble joined the concert band in their annual exchange concert. This year the exchange was with Oxford High School from Oxford, Massachusetts. The singers had a fun-filled weekend staying in the homes of the students in Oxford and performing with the other school. This was not the end of the fun. On April 6 and 7 we played host to Oxford High School. They came here and we performed in another concert together which was stimulating to the listeners.

The Vocal Ensemble ended their year with a trip to Maryland. While there they competed against other schools to see who had the most musical talent. The last concert of the year was held in June. It was the "Pops" concert. This was a nice way to finish yet another successful musical year at SWHS.

Instrumental Music

Our school band is very important to our school. When most people think band they think of people dressed up in uniforms playing music either in a concert setting or as a marching band. Not many realize the hard work and dedication that goes into being a band member; the long hours of practice, before and during school; the hours spent playing at football games and pep rallies, and the annual winter and spring concerts.

The band keeps busy all year starting with all the home football games. At every home football game the band comes out at half time and brings out the Bobcat spirit in the fans. Not only can you hear the band at the football games but also at one of their various concerts. Each year in December the band plans to have a Winter Concert before Christmas vacation. This year, though, the concert was postponed until January because Mr. Lazzerini was out ill.

One of the Band's biggest events is their exchange concert. An exchange concert is when our band goes to another school for the weekend and gives their school a concert. This year the band performed in Oxford, Massachusetts. Most years the trip is for three days. This year unfortunately the trip was shortened to just a weekend. During the weekend they gave their concert and kept busy with other planned activities such as, an exchange dance with the members of the Oxford band and a breakfast. On the weekend of April 6th the Oxford band will come to South Windsor High to play in their part of the exchange.

A tradition for the band is to play in the South Windsor Memorial Day parade. This event is very important because the band performs before the South Windsor community, and to top off a busy year, the band finishes the year by playing at the senior graduation.

Mr. Lazzerini, Dale Johnson, Herbert Brown, Eric Hildebrand, and James Nova are involved with the Brass Ensemble.

Drama Club

This year's Drama Club was very enthusiastic. Among their many accomplishments, the biggest one was to overcome the lack of the stage, considering South Windsor High School's auditorium was demolished due to renovations. The second accomplishment was producing the play "A Tale Of Two Cities". Their last production was the play "No No Nanette". Both plays were attended by big audiences which proved the Drama Club's success in producing the plays.

"A Tale of Two Cities" was performed in December. According to Senior Katy Callahan, "We had a lot of fun producing the play although it took much hard work." Katy plans to further her education at a music school.

In late April the Drama Club performed "No No Nanette." This was the second one of the two plays the club had to produce without an auditorium. Senior Heather Brown commented, "although we did not have an auditorium it was still an experience for all."

Hopefully, next year the Drama Club will still be able to produce plays in the new auditorium.

Drama Club overcomes lack of stage

The 1990 Drama Club performed their rendition of "A Tale of Two Cities" December 7 and 8 to crowds of about 100 people. Since the stage had been demolished, the actors had to improvise.

Director Stephen Foley wrote, "When I contemplated producing a play without an available stage, I decided there was one of two approaches I could take. One approach would be to select a play with a stationary set that never changed during the course of the show. The second was to select a show with a representational set, one in which a bench suggests a park, a chair a living room. Ultimately, I decided to find a show that would be a challenge for both myself and the club members and see what kind of set that show would require."

Dominating the platform stage in the center of the cafeteria was an eight foot door frame/guillotine. Black boxes served as mobile props as the actors adjusted to theater in the round.

It was possible to understand the play even if you hadn't read the book. You merely had to pay attention and refer back to your program. The play takes place in the courtyard of an English Inn in the 1860's. The audience is attending the Inn's production of "A Tale of Two Cities" which is set during the French Revolution. It deals with individuals caught up in the turmoil of war, and focuses on all types of social classes. "It was the best of times, it was the worst of times . . ."

Holding the attention of the audience for three and a half hours is a difficult job; however, the cast was able to entertain an enthusiastic audience.

New leadership and activities for the Outing Club

This year the Outing Club is under different direction, Mr. Rioux stepped down as advisor. After serving 18 years as Mr. Rioux's right hand man, Mr. Cloutman has taken over the position of advisor with the help of Ms. Cloutier. Both Mr. Rioux and Mr. Cloutman agree that new blood will breathe fresh ideas and new life into the club.

Over the years, the Outing Club has touched many lives. When the club was formed there were 25 members, at its peak there were 450 members and last year's membership rang in at 290 members. Mr. Rioux feels that the increasing costs of the trips have kept many would-be-members away. When asked what his fondest memory was, he responded, "I turned hundreds, maybe even thousands of kids onto skiing-many of whom are still skiing today. Now even some of their kids are skiing, too." As Mr. Randazzo summed it up, "The Outing Club has provided a lot of good times for students that they will take with them for the rest of their lives. We can't thank him enough." The advisors have re-established the Outing Clubs' executive board to allow students a direct influence on the club. The executive board helped distribute the work load of the club so the advisors wouldn't be too overburdened.

Mr. Carlson remembers when he was a member of the Outing Club in high school. When he was a member, the club was directed towards skiers. They tried holding other trips for non-skiers like canoeing, horseback riding and bicycling, but they never got enough people to sign up. They had no problem finding people to go on skiing trips. There were ski trips held every other weekend which filled up rapidly. One thing he remembers most about the Outing Club was the trips to Mt.

Washington. Mr. Carlson said it was a great success and wishes they still had hiking trips like the Mt. Washington trip.

Over the years, the club has offered hiking, canoeing, camping and trips to amusement parks. Recently, however, students have not responded well to most non-skiing activities. Mr. Rioux sites this fickle student response as being his greatest disappointment and frustration.

Mr. Cloutman hopes to include more activities than just skiing. There are a lot of plans in the works, with activities ranging from windsurfing lessons to horseback riding. The sky is the limit. Well, maybe not anymore, since they're even considering hot air ballooning. The possibilities are virtually endless.

Next year, don't forget to check the bulletin boards for all the news about the Outing Club and more fun trips that you can be a part of. It isn't just for skiers!

Canada and Colorado-Ski trips '91

Despite all the changes in the outing club, what hasn't changed is all the fun. Although under new leadership, the Outing Club still provides a variety of exiting trips available to anyone and everyone who is interested in having a good time.

This past year the biggest trip was to Canada. This sold out trip was for 4 days over February vacation. 40 students and 4 advisors traveled for 6 hours by bus to reach Quebec. The first day of skiing was spent at Mt. Orford. The second was Sutton with it's many blades, and the third day was at Owl's Head Mountain, overlooking Lake Magog. "The skiing was good the first two days. Despite the cold weather, the trip was a success," said Senior Kelly Marshall.

The Colorado trip was for 6 days in Steamboat Springs, Colorado. 4 students and 4 chaperones went on the trip. "Every run was incredible in Colorado. It was sunny and the snow cover was perfect. There were no lift lines or crowded trails. It was every skiers paradise," said Junior Brian Moore.

Next year these trips will be offered again, don't miss the opportunity to visit Canada and Colorado/Utah.

Teachers and students enjoy a sunny spring day white water rafting through the gorge on the Upper Hudson River. This river can be very dangerous with class III and IV rapids. A certified guide goes with each raft to insure safety. This raft had just gone through a series of standing waves.

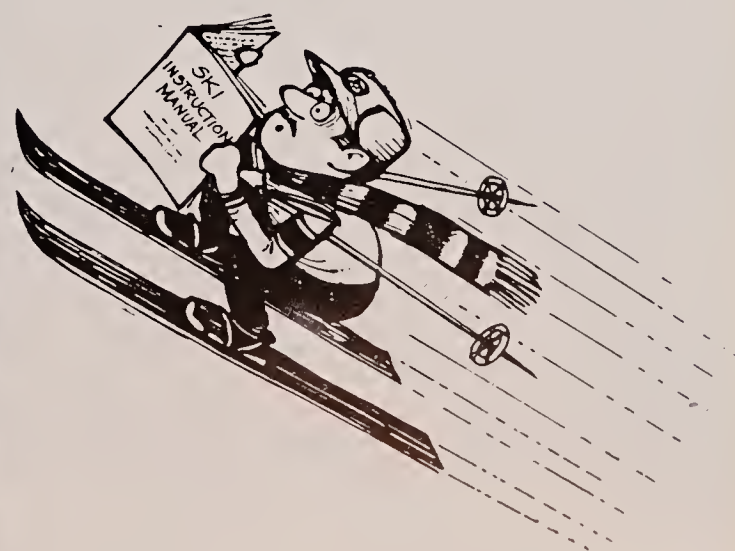

An expert skier makes a jump beside this huge snow-covered tree in Steamboat Springs. Skiing in deep snow and at high altitudes made skiing much different than found here in the northeast.

Junior Jen Sheehan and Senior Kim Sullivan pause for a minute for a breather before heading back to those treacherous double diamond slopes.

Mr. Rioux pauses before a trail marker while skiing at Pico Mountain. Knowing Mr. Rioux, we know he didn't take the Easy Street trail.

Literary Magazine

Middle: Donna Camerota, Cherrye Gibbs, Traci Dreher, Cecelie Sudland. Bottom: Rebecca Straayer, Barbara Christensen, Jody Krasner, Emily Hebert.

The Literary Magazine, "In My Mind's Eye," is a book of stories, artwork, and poems written and published by SWHS students. With the help of advisors, Mrs. Davidson and Mrs. Gorman, the students of the high school are able to publish this award winning magazine.

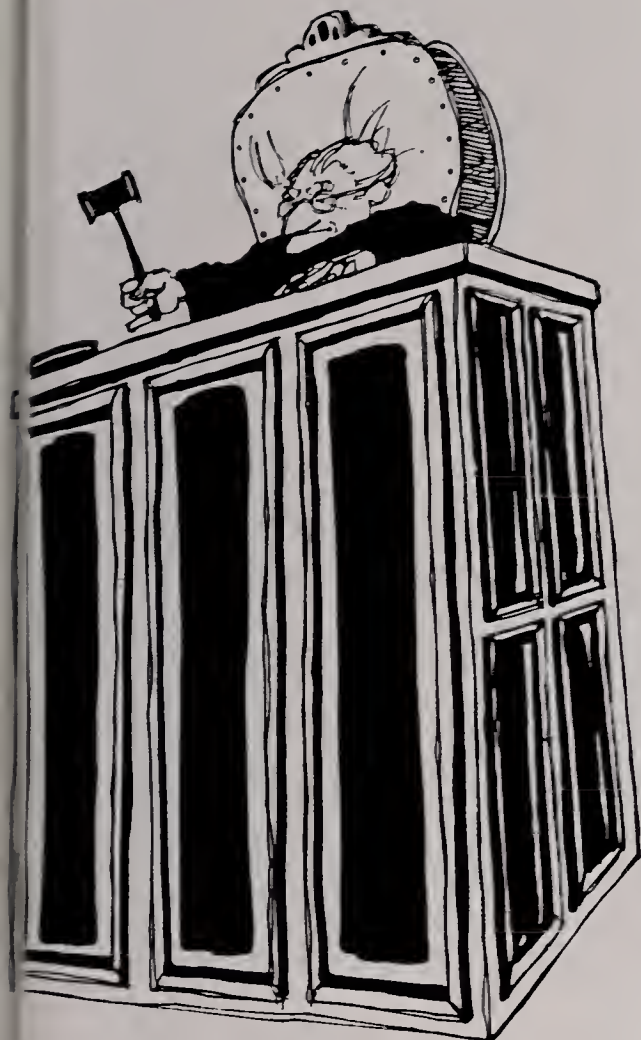

The stories and artwork for the magazine are written, designed, laid out, and printed by the students. The Graphic Arts classes produce the printed pages and have them bound. The 1990 Literary Magazine won a Gutenberg Award from the Graphic Arts Educators for excellence in design and printing. The students and advisors work on the magazine all year long as an activity and put in a lot of hard work and dedication. By the end of the year, the magazine is filled with many extraordinary works of art, original pieces of writing, and stunning photographs.

Each year the Literary Magazine asks for original submissions from the students of SWHS. From these submissions, the members of the club decide what will be admitted. Emily Hebert is the Senior editor of "In My Mind's Eye," she has been a member of the Literary Magazine for 4 years. Jodi Krasner is the Junior editor of this publication. Jodi has been a member of this club for 3 years. Both students have put in many hours of hard work and dedication.

After 2 years of receiving "excellent" ratings, last years magazine received a rating of "superior". This is the highest rating given in Student Literary Magazines, by the National Council of Teachers of English. This award is quite an honor.

Mock Trial

Mock Trial is an activity which helps students gain a better understanding of the legal system and how it works first hand. The students are given sample cases which they prepare and present to a court. Their job is to persuade the judge and jury of their clients' innocence or of their rights. Much preparation is needed for these students, so that they can experience an actual courtroom setting. They work many hours to develop a strong case that will defeat their opponent.

Not only do these students need to prepare their cases, but they must prepare themselves mentally. Nervousness is just one of the many emotions these students will face while they present their arguments.

This year's Mock Trial presented their arguments on March 20, 1991. Their preparation included getting together with the side which they defended once a week. On another night, the whole group met with their attorney advisor, Thomas Barrett. He helped them focus on essential points of the case, and incorporate those ideas into their questions for cross examinations. Mr. Barrett can also give the student lawyers a feeling of what it would be like in a courtroom in front of judges and a jury. Advisor and Law Veteran, Miss Moran also offered her help on these nights of conference and preparation.

The case this year involved a home in a residential area that housed AIDS patients. The neighbors were fighting because they felt that it could be a threat to their children. The AIDS patients were fighting because they felt that they should have been able to live wherever they wanted and they believed they held no threat to the neighborhood.

The way the trials were judged this year was a little different. Last year, the teams went to Hartford Superior Court, but because of the problems in the state budget, they could no longer go there. This year they went to the Manchester Superior Court where they presented their case twice.

Starting Fresh

FBLA was a non-existent activity last year due to scheduling conflicts, but this year it is back in full force. The activity is designed to provide members with an opportunity to learn first hand about the business community. Along with preparing members to enter the working world, it also helps to develop qualities of business and civic leadership. FBLA members learn how to become business leaders and how to relate to the business community.

Many activities are also associated with FBLA such as meetings with professional guest speakers, civic projects that benefit the community, and social events to meet other business people. Competitive events are held in all business areas at the area Conference. Top scores at the Conference will compete again in that event at the State Leadership Conference. First place winners of the State event are eligible to compete at the national level.

Foundations - The Yearbook Has Been A Real Challenge, And For Some A Building Experience

1990-91 Remembered....

The members of this year's 1991 Centurion remember the first days of class when Mr. Nelson seemed like the most intimidating teacher. No one wanted to voice their own opinions, on anything, in fear of being shot down. The staff's most difficult task in the beginning was coming up with a theme for the 1991 yearbook. After long discussions and a few disagreements, a suitable theme was created...Foundations. From then on, the construction of the yearbook began.

Throughout the year the members of the yearbook staff were there to capture your most important high school moments. The staff of Centurion met bright and early every morning, in A period, to work on a log of your high school career.

Global Awareness

What was at one time Amnesty International has become the Global Awareness Club. One reason for the change was a lack of interest in Amnesty International, which was once a popular club among a group of students.

With the recent emphasis on awareness of the environment, and how badly it is forgotten about; the remaining students and the advisor decided that it would be a good idea to change the purpose of the club to that of preserving the environment. They hoped that this would attract new members to the small club.

Very often as you walk around school you see posters and notices reminding you to recycle and not to throw everything out. The group posts a bulletin board in the lobby so that people can easily be reminded of their duty to the environment and its preservation. The bulletin board also explains some of the processes in recycling the materials which we would normally throw out.

One of the group's major undertakings was the hosting of the black history assemblies. They included some of the school's black students who sang and read poetry written by black authors. .

The global awareness group reminds us about the importance of recycling through one of their many posters they hang around the school.

Student Government

The Student Government started out the year with a big disappointment when they found out that their adviser decided not to be an adviser this year. All of the students were very upset and when efforts failed to recruit one, they weren't sure what they would do. Luckily Mr. Bordonaro agreed to work with them with the spare time he could find so the group could exist.

The student government did many things this year to help the students during the school day as well as after school hours. One thing they did was make the big calendar at the end of the main hallway where everyone could see it. It contained much useful information about happenings, sports and even the lunch menu. The lunch menu was particularly helpful to many students since no one ever seems to know what's for lunch.

One of the after school hours events that the student government held was the dance with the live band As Is and the two fifteen foot video screens. It was a great success and was thought to be one of the best dances ever held. The highlight of the dance was the band though. Nearly everyone liked the group and thought that they were excellent for a band out of high school. There were some games that were played such a limbo which you could win prizes in or you could have just danced and ate the free food and drink supplied by the student government.

Another thing which was, and always has been a great success was the computer dating service. Not only did it provide a great amount of humor to our normally dull dreary days, but it also may make that special match between two people that may last a lifetime. Probably not, but it was fun to find out who the computer thought you were compatible with. If you were really daring, you may have asked someone from the list to go out on a date.

The student government also became involved in the recycling in the town and together with the global awareness club worked to get people interested in recycling. They started the recycling of the white paper this year in order to try to help save the cutting down of trees which are a vital part of the environment. Last year they began the recycling of the styrofoam in the cafe.

Senior Brad Symmonds fumbles with the keyboard as he diligently types in a story.

Expansions

The school has seen many new changes within its boundaries this year. Something that has caught everyone's eye is the new and improved Southwinds design and layout. A more in depth focus on reporting and the technical end of the newspaper has made the Southwinds look better than it ever has.

Over the summer break, the school received a non-math computer lab which was used by the South Windsor Journalism class in the production of the school newspaper, The Southwinds. Advisor, Mr. Woodworth, spent several hours setting up the computers and preparing them for the onslaught of usage they would receive over the next few months.

He did a good job too. The Southwinds was printed about every two weeks. It contained several special editions, including one on the former South Windsor High School students in the Gulf War conflict.

Due to the excellence in design and journalistic reporting, the Southwinds received a first place award in the Columbia Scholastic Press Association judging. It also received the Gutenberg Award for printing excellence toward the production of the Southwinds.

This year's Editor-in-Chief, Geoff

Willard, along with Journalism/II editors, worked together to make this year's publications as enjoyable as possible. With cartoons by Kevin Willis and company, our journalists brought out the lighter side of school events and national conflicts.

This is the fifth year of the Graphic Arts/Journalism to be team taught as a full year course. Assisting Mr. Woodworth is Mr. Colpitts and Mr. Nelson.
